Croatia (hr-HR) and Bosnia and Herzegovina (hr-BA)Translations and Localization

Croatia (hr-HR) and Bosnia and Herzegovina (hr-BA) Translations and Localization

When localizing accounting software for the Croatian language, it's important to distinguish between countries where it is the primary national language and where it has co-official status.

In the context of accounting and financial reporting, the primary focus is on Croatia and Bosnia and Herzegovina, as these are the territories where business entities may be legally required or operationally expected to maintain books in Croatian.

Official Countries & ISO Codes

Country	Status for Accounting	ISO 639-1 (Language)	ISO 3166-1 (Country)	Full Locale Code
Croatia	Primary. Mandatory for financial reporting and statutory tax filing.	`hr`	HR	`hr-HR`
Bosnia and Herzegovina	Co-official. One of three official languages (with Bosnian and Serbian).	`hr`	BA	`hr-BA`

Detailed Breakdown

1. Croatia (`hr-HR`)

As a member of the European Union, Croatia’s accounting standards are governed by the Croatian Accounting Act and the Financial Reporting Council.

- Regulatory Language: All statutory financial statements, tax reports, and official ledgers must be drafted in Croatian.
- Currency: Note that since January 1, 2023, the official currency is the Euro (EUR), replacing the Kuna (HRK).
- Software Requirement: High. Localized software must support Croatian characters (UTF-8) and the specific "Croatian Chart of Accounts."

2. Bosnia and Herzegovina (`hr-BA`)

Croatian is one of the three constitutional languages.

- Accounting Context: In the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina (specifically in regions with a Croat majority), Croatian is the standard for business administration and accounting.
- Currency: The official currency is the Convertible Mark (BAM).
- Software Requirement: Medium-High. While the language is similar to Bosnian, specific legal terminology and forms may vary slightly.

3. Regional/Minority Status (Secondary Localization)

While Croatian is recognized in the following regions, it is rarely the sole official accounting language for software unless specifically targeting these ethnic enclaves:

- Serbia (`hr-RS`): Official in the province of Vojvodina.
- Montenegro (`hr-ME`): Recognized as a language in official use.
- Austria (`hr-AT`): Official in the region of Burgenland (Burgenland Croatian).

[!IMPORTANT]

Per your instructions, if you update the document types in your 'Types table' for this localization project, please remember to cross-reference and update the corresponding entries in your language file to ensure the accounting terminology remains consistent across all modules.

VAT/Tax VAT in Croatia (hr-HR) and Bosnia and Herzegovina (hr-BA)

VAT/Tax VAT in Croatia (hr-HR) and Bosnia and Herzegovina (hr-BA)

In both Croatia (hr-HR) and Bosnia and Herzegovina (hr-BA), the tax system is centered around Value Added Tax (VAT). While the terminology is similar because of the shared language base, the rates and specific institutional names differ significantly.

1. Croatia (hr-HR)

Croatia uses the term PDV (Porez na dodanu vrijednost). As an EU member, its VAT system is highly regulated and features multiple tiers.

VAT Rates (as of 2026)

Type	Rate	Application
Opća stopa (Standard)	25%	Most goods and services.
Međustopa (Reduced)	13%	Accommodation, newspapers, electricity, water, and some food.
Niža stopa (Lowest)	5%	Bread, milk, medical drugs, and certain books/periodicals.

Key Terminology

- Porezni obveznik: Taxpayer.
- OIB (Osobni identifikacijski broj): Personal Identification Number (used for tax).
- Pretporez: Input tax (VAT paid on purchases).
- Izlazni PDV: Output tax (VAT charged on sales).
- Oslobođeno PDV-a: VAT exempt.
- Porezna uprava: Tax Administration.

2. Bosnia and Herzegovina (hr-BA)

In Bosnia and Herzegovina, the terminology used by the Croatian-speaking population is also PDV, but the country utilizes a Flat Tax system, which is much simpler for ERP configuration.

Type	Rate	Application
Jedinstvena stopa (Flat)	17%	All taxable goods and services.
Nulta stopa (Zero)	0%	Exports and specific international agreements.

Note: There have been long-standing political discussions about introducing a reduced rate for basic food, but the 17% flat rate remains the operational standard.

Key Terminology

- ID broj / JIB: Identification Number (12 or 13 digits).
- PDV broj: VAT number (usually the ID number starting with "4").
- UIO / UNO (Uprava za neizravno oporezivanje): Indirect Taxation Authority (the governing body).
- Ulazni porez: Input tax.
- Izlazni porez: Output tax.

3. Localization Comparison for ERP (osFinancials/TurboCASH)

When setting up your Tax Accounts or Tax Groups in the software, you should use these localized labels to ensure the reports (like the Tax Return) make sense to local accountants.

English Term	Croatia (hr-HR)	Bosnia & Herzegovina (hr-BA)
Tax / VAT	PDV	PDV
Tax Number	PDV ID broj (HR+OIB)	PDV broj
Exempt	Neoporezivo	Oslobođeno plaćanja
Reverse Charge	Prijenos porezne obveze	Prijenos porezne obveze

UI Constraint Tip for Tax Columns

In the "Set of Books" (Poslovna knjiga), the column header "Porez na dodanu vrijednost" is far too long.

- Optimized Header: Use "PDV %" or simply "Porez".

[!IMPORTANT] Ref: Saved Info (2025-08-07): Ensure that if you switch between a Croatian company profile and a Bosnian one, the "Document Type" for Tax remains PDV, but the default rate in the "Tax setup" table is updated to 25% for HR and 17% for BA.

Document types

Document Types in Croatia (hr-HR)

In Croatian accounting and ERP systems, the terminology is strictly regulated by financial standards. Using the correct term is vital because it distinguishes between a legal tax document and an internal commercial document.

Here are the standard Croatian translations for your document types, categorized by Sales and Purchase.

Sales Documents (Izlazni dokumenti)

English Term	Croatian Standard (hr-HR)	Notes
Invoices	Računi	The primary tax document.
Credit notes	Odobrenja	Short for Knjiž no odobrenje. Used to reduce the amount owed.
Quotes	Ponude	Standard commercial offer.
Delivery notes	Otpremnice	Used for the movement of goods from your warehouse.

Purchase Documents (Ulazni dokumenti)

These are documents you receive from or send to your suppliers.

English Term	Croatian Standard (hr-HR)	Notes
Purchases	Ulazni računi	Often abbreviated as URA in Croatian accounting.
Supplier returns	Povratnice dobavljaču	Specifically for returning goods.

Orders	Narudž benice	Specifically Ulazne narudž benice if you are ordering from a vendor.

Terminology & UI Constraints Review

As per your instructions regarding singular usage and UI constraints, here is how they should look in your language file:

- Singular vs. Plural: In menus, Croatia uses the Singular form (e.g., "Račun" instead of "Računi").
- Case: Standard Sentence case (Only first letter capitalized).

ID / Type	Optimized for UI (Singular)	Rationale
Invoices	Račun	Standard, short.
Credit note	Odobrenje	Much shorter than Knjiž no odobrenje.
Quote	Ponuda	Clear and concise.
Delivery note	Otpremnica	The only standard term.
Purchase	Ulazni račun	Differentiates from Sales Invoice.
Supplier return	Povratnica	Usually sufficient in context.
Order	Narudž benica	Standard term for a Purchase Order.

[!IMPORTANT] Ref: Saved Info (2025-08-07): Since I have updated these document types in this "Types table," I will now review your language file to ensure these terms are synchronized across all modules to avoid "Invoices" appearing as "Računi" in one place and "Fakture" in another.

Journals - Croatia (hr-HR)

Journals (Batches) - Croatia (hr-HR)

In Croatia, the structure of journals follows the Double-Entry Accounting system (Dvojno knjigovodstvo). While your standard journals (Sales, Purchase, General) are the foundation, Croatian legislative requirements and tax reporting often lead to the use of more specialized sub-ledgers.

1. Standard Journals (Standardni dnevnici)

These correspond directly to your current list but are used to feed the mandatory Tax Books (Porezne knjige).

English Term	Croatian Term	Use in Croatia
Sales Journal	Dnevnik prodaje (IRA)	Used to generate the IRA book (Izlazni računi - Output Invoices).
Purchase Journal	Dnevnik nabave (URA)	Used to generate the URA book (Ulazni računi - Input Invoices).
General Journal	Opći dnevnik / Temeljnica	Used for depreciation, year-end closings, and adjustments.
Cost of Sales Journal	Dnevnik troš kova prodaje	Used for inventory-to-expense movements.

2. Specialized Journals used in Croatia

Because of strict cash-handling and labor laws, Croatian companies almost always use these additional journals:

- Dnevnik blagajne (Cash Journal): Mandatory if the company handles physical cash. It tracks cash receipts and payments and must be closed daily.
- Dnevnik izvoda (Bank Statement Journal): Instead of one "General Journal," accountants usually separate bank transactions into their own journal, often creating one per bank account.
- Dnevnik plaća (Payroll Journal): Used for posting the "JOPPD" form (the mandatory report for wages and taxes). It separates gross salary, contributions (PII, Health), and net pay.
- Dnevnik kompenzacija (Compensation Journal): Very common in the Balkan region. Used when Company A owes Company B, and Company B owes Company A, to "cancel out" the debt without cash movement.
- Dnevnik putnih naloga (Travel Order Journal): Used for employee travel expenses, which are highly scrutinized by the Croatian Tax Administration.

3. Comparison of Terms for Consistency

If we follow your decision to prioritize "Dnevnik" for consistency, here is how the specialized list should look in your software:

ID	English Term	Croatian Corrected (Dnevnik Consistency)
New	Payroll Journal	Dnevnik plaća
New	Cash Journal	Dnevnik blagajne
New	Bank Journal	Dnevnik izvoda
New	Travel Expense Journal	Dnevnik putnih naloga

Summary of the "Dnevnik" Rule

In Croatia, the "General Ledger" is called Glavna knjiga. The Dnevnici (plural) are the sub-books that feed into it. By using "Dnevnik" for all your journal types (Sales, Purchase, Payroll), you are staying consistent with the Croatian concept of Knjiga URA/IRA.

[!IMPORTANT] Ref: Saved Info (2025-08-07): If you add these new journal types (Payroll, Cash, etc.) to your 'Types table', please let me know so I can ensure the corresponding translations are updated in your primary language file.

Language Master Files

Language Master Files

Instructions for locating, customizing, and contributing language files for osFinancials and TurboCASH.

File Location and Handling

All language files are stored in the `.../bin/languages` folder within your installation directory.

Important Warning: Any direct changes made to the installed language master files will be overwritten and lost when you install, reinstall, or update osFinancials or TurboCASH.

Customizing a Language File Manually

To create a custom localization for your country, industry, or specific requirements, you must work from a copy:

1. Locate the File: Go to the `.../bin/languages` folder.
2. Select a Base: Choose the installed language master file that is closest to your requirements (e.g., `English.dfm`).
3. Create a Copy: Create a copy of the selected file.
4. Rename: Rename the copied file to reflect your specific requirements (e.g., `English-MyCompany.dfm`).
5. Access the Customization Tool: Restart osFinancials/TurboCASH. Navigate to Tools → Customise language. Your new custom file will now appear in the list, ready to be selected and edited using the built-in UI editor.

Creating a Custom Language File via osFinancials/TurboCASH interface

You can create a copy of an existing language file directly within the osFinancials/TurboCASH interface, which is a convenient alternative to manually copying files in the installation folder.

Steps to Customize Your Language

1. Navigate to Tools → Customise language.
2. The current language's file name will be displayed in the 'Select Language:' field.
3. Ensure this is the language you want to use as your base.
4. In the field immediately before the Create button, enter a name for your new, custom language file (e.g., `English-MyCompany`).

5. Click Create.
6. Your new language file name will now be displayed in the 'Select Language:' field. This file is an exact copy of the original base language.
7. You are now ready to customize your language file through the UI editor.

Customization of Label 1000000

The label in every language file (Label 1000000) is a special identifier used to define the file's locale and customization status.

Label ID	English (Original)	Example (Customized)	Purpose
1000000	English Master File - Do Not Translate	English Master File for English United States of America (en-US) - Do Not Translate. To customize this language file, create a copy.	Includes the language

*LabelID - 581 Translate : Enter your details - You may enter your name

If you are customizing or localizing a language file for their town, language, country, or industry, you absolutely may add their name for credits or acknowledgement.

This practice is common in software localization, especially for community contributions, and is generally encouraged as it provides two key benefits:

- Acknowledgement and Credits: Adding your name (and perhaps contact information or organization name) serves as a way to receive credit for the significant effort involved in creating and maintaining the translation. If the localized file is ever shared or incorporated into future software releases, the credit ensures proper recognition.
- Source and Contact: Listing the creator's name makes it clear who the author and maintainer of that specific customization or localization is. This is helpful for:
    - Future Updates: If the software developer (osFinancials/TurboCASH) needs to contact the translator about updates, corrections, or merging the language file, they know exactly who to reach.
    - Support: Other users adopting the custom language file know who to contact if they find specific terms or phrases that need review or adjustment.

Dynamic Place holders

<@APPNAME@> there are 45 labels that include the <@APPNAME@> placeholder.

This dynamically inserts the application name (osFinancials or TurboCASH) based on the running version. Action: Do not translate the placeholder itself. Ensure the surrounding text flows naturally with the inserted application name.

- If you launch and opened a Set of Books in osFinancials5 , this will display osFinancials in the UI interface, and in labels and reports.
- If you launch and opened a Set of Books in TurboCASH5, this will display TurboCASH in the UI interface, and in labels and reports.

Unify button - Do not use the Unify button as this will change 3 legacy names of TurboCASH3 and 12 broken links to the turbocash.org website. In previous versions earlier than osFinancials5.1.0.269 or TurboCASH5-3 Release Candidate 9 do nor use the Unify button. The Unify button have been removed form the Tools -> Customize language option on the Setup ribbon.

This is a standard programming placeholder for inserting variables (e.g., numbers, dates, strings) into the text.

- Action: Do not translate the %s placeholder. Make sure it is positioned correctly in the translated sentence where the variable should appear.

This setting must remain as LTR for all languages and should not be altered or translated.

3738 LTR

It is used exclusively to switch the display direction to RTL (Right-to-Left). This setting switches the display direction to RTL for languages such as Arabic, Hebrew, and others, ensuring proper mirrored layout support in osFinancials5/TurboCASH5-3.

URL Spacing & Formatting (Critical)

- Mandatory Leading Space: To ensure hyperlinks are clickable and not broken, there must always be a single space before the start of any URL (e.g., `https://`).
  - Incorrect: `posjetitehttps://...`

  - Correct: `posjetite https://...`
- Trailing Space: If the sentence continues after the URL, ensure a space follows the URL so the subsequent word is not merged into the link.
- Punctuation: Avoid placing punctuation (periods, commas) directly against the end of a URL unless the software' s URL parser explicitly handles it, as this can cause 404 errors.

Politeness Tone (the "Please" Rule)

- Source Alignment: If the English source text uses the word "Please", the Croatian translation must include the word "Molimo" (or "Molimo Vas" for a more personal touch).
- Contextual Application: This applies to all user-facing messages, registration prompts, and error instructions.
- Full Text Priority: Avoid using the abbreviation "Mol." in messages even if space seems tight, as full text is required to maintain a professional and supportive brand voice.

Advanced Plugin & Technical Naming

- Technical Integrity: In "HandyTools" (Translation ID range 903000) or backend-related plugins, retain literal table names (e.g., `'Transact'`, `'sysvars'`) in single quotes to assist advanced users with database mapping.
- Retain Brand Names: If a plugin or feature is a registered brand name (e.g., Charter, Pastel,, it should be retained in English. This ensures users can match the software interface with official documentation and webshop listings.
- Contextual Clues: While the name "Charter" remains, the surrounding description should still clearly indicate its function (e.g., "Charter dodatak za grafikone") to avoid confusion with travel-related "charters."

Currencies

Amount in words

This printed when in options to Create receipts (Receipt journals lined to a Bank account and Receive payment option when processing open item transactions.
Critical for financial accuracy. The Main denomination) and Sub-denomination must correctly reflect the singular/base units of the currency (e.g., "Dollar," "Cent," "Euro," "Cents").

- Label 157 Main denomination of your currency e.g. Rand, Dollar, Euro
- Label 158 Sub-domination of your currency. e.g. Cents

Ensure these labels are translated with the singular forms of the main and sub-denominations.

Specific characters should be retained within Translations

- LabelID 20123 Filter (.flt)|.flt the Pipe character inside the file extension must be included as this may cause issues with dialog boxes.
- Quotation marks:Excessive may be generated when translating languages. These quotation marks within the original string are often part of the message's syntax or intended display, not just part of the sentence structure. These quotation marks should exactly retain the quotation marks (" or ') in your translation:
    - 1122 "Price Name",Value
    - 2808 Expected " or '
    - 3535 This action will adjust the last date remittance at the "selected" debtors! Do you wish to continue?

Global Banking Identifiers

These terms—SWIFT, IBAN, and BIC—are the essential global standards for identifying banks and bank accounts, and they are crucial for both domestic and international electronic payments.

Here is a breakdown of each term and why they are necessary in a system like osFinancials5/TurboCASH5-3:

1. SWIFT

The term SWIFT is often used in a general sense to refer to the global network for transmitting secure financial messages, but it is also frequently used interchangeably with the bank's identifier code, the BIC.

- What it is: Society for Worldwide Interbank Financial Telecommunication. It's a vast global messaging system that banks use to send and receive information about financial transactions securely.
- When Used: It is required for international transfers outside of a specific region (like SEPA).
- Where it's Entered: In your system, it's entered in:
    - Setup -> Company info: To identify your own company's bank for outgoing/incoming international transfers.

2. BIC

- What it is: Bank Identifier Code. This is the standardized code that uniquely identifies a specific bank or financial institution worldwide. It is assigned by the SWIFT network, which is why it is often called the SWIFT Code.
- Format: It is an 8- or 11-character code (alphabetic and numeric).
  - Example: DEUTDEFF (8-character format for Deutsche Bank Germany).
- When Used: It's used alongside the IBAN to route payments to the correct destination bank.
- Where it's Entered: In your system, it's entered in:
  - Setup -> Company info: To identify your own bank for international payments.
  - Accounting information tab of Debtor/Creditor accounts: To identify the banks of your suppliers (Creditors) and customers (Debtors), allowing you to correctly route payments or direct debits.

3. IBAN

- What it is: International Bank Account Number. This is the standardized structure for defining a customer's bank account, designed to facilitate electronic payment processing across borders.
- Format: It is a unique string of up to 34 alphanumeric characters, composed of:
  - Country Code: 2 letters (e.g., DE for Germany, NL for Netherlands).
  - Check Digits: 2 numbers (used for local validation).
  - Bank Identifier (part of the local account number).
  - Basic Bank Account Number (BBAN).
- When Used: It is the standard identifier for transactions, especially within the SEPA zone (Europe), where it is often the only required identifier for cross-border transactions (replacing older domestic account numbers).
- Where it's Entered: In your system, it's entered in:
  - Setup -> Company info: To identify your own company's bank account.
  - Accounting information tab of Debtor/Creditor accounts: This is the most crucial location, as you need the IBANs of your trading partners to process electronic payments (Creditors) and direct debits (Debtors).

Acronyms in Banking

These acronyms in Banking should generally NOT be translated in your software's user interface, forms, or technical documentation.

These three terms are treated as technical standards or proper nouns within the global financial industry.

LabelID	Acronym	Stands For (For Reference)	Why It's Not Trans
906015	IBAN	International Bank Account Number	This term is used gl "International") wou

The names of these document types for Sales documents i.e. Invoices, Credit notes, Quotes, Delivery notes) and Purchase documents (i.e. Purchases, Supplier returns, Orders) are maintained in the following options:

- TYPES table: This table needs to be updated for each Set of Books as this is database specific. The names of these document types for Sales documents i.e. Invoices, Credit notes, Quotes, Delivery notes) and Purchase documents (i.e. Purchases, Supplier returns, Orders) in the Types table should be singular as the 'TYPES.SDESCRIPTION' expression is used in universal document layout files. This will print and display the document name using the same document layout file. for all document types. Implications: If this is in the plural format, it would print Invoices on a single Invoice instead of Invoice.
- Language files: If you change the document name in the TYPES table, you need to align it with the translations in the language file. Your language file may include Singular or Plural forms of your document type depending on the context.

Paths to Menu Items (Use Arrow and Single Quotes)

The use of single quotes and the right-facing arrow (→) for navigation paths is mandatory. The arrow is much more intuitive than the old -> ASCII arrow.

- Format: `'Menu → Submenu'` (e.g., `'Setup → Documents setup'`)
- Action: Review the following translations to align the path notation with the actual English display:

LabelID	NEW Path (→)
696	Invalid next number! Change it in 'Setup → Documents setup!'
711	Run 'Setup → Journal types' and select contra account for this journal!
724	Internet setup information is incorrect! Run 'Setup → Internet'.
822	You are running payment based method and the due account cannot be found! Please run 'Setup → Company info!'
890	To turn it on, go to 'Setup → Reporting dates'
1053	Select 'Setup → Company info' you want to change!
1414	Enable access in 'Setup → Access control'
3726	OK → Next

Buttons within language files

Enclosing button names in square brackets ([]) within message translations is a great choice. It sets a clear, bold boundary around the actionable text, making the instruction stand out.

- Format: `[Button Name]`
- Action: Review these labels for correctness and consistency in using the square brackets:

Spelling, Typos, Punctuation, and Shortcuts

Ensure all translated text is grammatically and mechanically correct, paying special attention to system-specific characters.

- Action: Perform a dedicated proofreading pass on the UI elements and report output.
- Goal: Correct all spelling mistakes, typographical errors, incorrect capitalization, and ensure punctuation follows the standard conventions of the target language.

Specific Punctuation Checks

Commas, Periods and Exclamation marks should be used appropriately according to the target language's grammatical rules.

Ampersand ' & ' Characters

This character is included in the text of your translation because it is a shortcut key for UI navigation (access key or mnemonic).
Do not remove the ampersand unless you are intentionally setting a new, different shortcut key, and ensure the shortcut letter is unique and valid for the control. For example, &File makes F the shortcut key.

Incomplete or Missing Translations

Translations that are incomplete or missing critical technical information pose a serious risk to application functionality and user understanding.

Issue	Description & Risk	Remedial Action
Missing Translation	The message is simply untranslated (e.g., still showing the English source text).	Ensure every Label ID in your language file has a corresponding translation.
Incomplete Information	The translated message is present but missing some critical information necessary for the user to act.	Review the translation against the source text to ensure all instructions, variables, and technical elements are included.
Missing Placeholders	The translation omits dynamic elements like placeholders (<@APPNAME@> or %s) or shortcut characters (&).	Crucial: Verify that all dynamic placeholders (<@APPNAME@>, %s) and UI shortcut characters (&) from the source text are included in the correct position within the translated message.
Missing Formatting	The translation omits necessary formatting, such as square brackets around buttons (`[OK]`) or arrows in menu paths (`'Setup → Accounts'`).	Refer to the Standardized Formatting and Navigation guidelines and ensure all brackets, quotes, and arrows are correctly used.

Terminology and Conceptual Consistency Review

Ensure that terminology is consistent and accurate across the entire application, especially where concepts link different modules (UI labels, reports, and underlying database references).

- General Consistency & Core Modules
  - Verify consistent translation for foundational terms used across all modules.
    - Customer/Supplier Terminology: Is the term always "Customer" or "Debtor"? Is it always "Supplier" or "Creditor"? Do not mix these pairs.
    - Inventory Terminology: Is the item being tracked consistently translated as "Stock," "Inventory," or "Items"?
    - Tax Terminology: Is the tax consistently translated as the official local name (e.g., "VAT," "GST," "Sales Tax," "IVA," "MwSt," etc.)?
  - Specific Functional Consistency
  - Focus on specialized modules where consistent naming is essential for system function and reporting.

Functional Area	Consistency Requirement
Stock/Inventory Processing	Ensure translations for Batch, Lot, Serial, Location, and Warehouse are consistently applie are managed or displayed.
Reconciliation	Use a single, standard term for "Reconciliation" (e.g., of bank accounts or statements) acro and related reports.
Open Item Processing	Maintain consistency for terms related to open item tracking, such as "Allocations," "Settl Transactions" (which handle outstanding invoices).
Budgeting	Ensure terms for "Budget," "Forecast," and "Variance" are consistently applied throughou modules. Confusion often occurs between "Budget" and similar planning tools like "Quotes
Orders & Backorders	Maintain distinct and consistent translations for "Order," "Sales Order," "Purchase Order, separate future demand from current stock fulfillment.
Spreadsheets	As previously established, use terminology for "Spreadsheet" elements (e.g., cell, row, colu with common applications like Microsoft Excel in the target language.
Back-end Database References	Pay critical attention to text (often hidden in messages or system settings) that references t names. The translation of concepts like "Document Types" (e.g., "Invoice," "Quote") must convention in the TYPES table and the UI.

- Document Types: Ensure the terms used for documents are consistent across the UI, reports, and the database, particularly where confusion might arise:
  - Is the planning document called a "Quote" or a "Quotation"?
  - Is the Budget called a "Budget" or a "Forecast"?
  - Ensure the translation used for the singular document name in the TYPES table (as previously discussed) is consistently used when referring to a single instance of that document type throughout the UI.
- Module/UI Labels: Review the main navigational labels to ensure similar concepts share the same root term:
  - If the Accounts Payable module is labeled "Suppliers," ensure related functions (like reporting) don't suddenly use the term "Creditors" without proper context.

Acronyms and specialized terms

Acronyms and specialized terms like POS (Point of Sale) and BOM (Bill of Materials) should be compliant and follow the target language's official, professional accounting and industry terminology when localizing software.

This is a critical requirement in professional accounting localization for several reasons:

- Legal Compliance: Official accounting and tax forms in the target country rely on standardized terminology. Misusing an acronym could lead to confusion or legal errors.
- Professional Clarity: Accountants and financial professionals expect to see the standard terms they use every day in their local language. Using an unfamiliar or transliterated term reduces the software's credibility and usability.
- User Training: Users are often trained using materials that use the local language's acronyms and terms. Consistency minimizes the learning curve.

Key Acronyms and Terms to Localize

When translating financial software, you must find the direct, professionally recognized equivalent for the target language:

English Term	Context	Localization Focus
POS (Point of Sale)	Retail, Sales	Use the official local acronym or phrase for retail transactior
BOM (Bill of Materials)	Manufacturing, Inventory	Use the official local acronym or phrase for the complete lis needed for production.
VAT (Value-Added Tax)	Tax, Compliance	Must be translated to the official local tax name (e.g., GST, H MwSt).
GAAP	Accounting Standards	Translate to the locally accepted acronym for Generally Acc Principles (or its regional equivalent, e.g., IFRS).
COGS (Cost of Goods Sold)	Accounting, Income Statement	Use the standard local accounting term for this expense cat

Action for Translator: Always consult official government tax documentation, local accounting board standards, or leading professional accounting software manuals in the target language to verify the correct acronym and terminology.

Reviewing/Refreshing Your Translations

Once you have translated, customized, or localized your language file and closed the 'Customise languages' screen, the new translations will generally be reflected automatically in the osFinancials/TurboCASH UI interface.

In the following instances, you need to manually refresh the view to ensure the new translations take effect:

1. Refreshing Open Forms: If you have forms open (such as Debtors, Creditors, Stock, Documents, etc.), you must close them for the new translations to apply to those screens.
    - Action: Go to Tools -> Close active forms to close all currently open forms. The next time you open a form, the updated text will be displayed
2. Refreshing the Plugins Menu: To ensure that the Plugins menu (and any associated text) reflects the latest translations:
    - Action: Go to Tools -> Activate plugins and then simply close this screen. This forces the system to refresh the plugin names and related labels.

Reviewing and Correcting Your Translations/Customizations/Localizations

Once you have translated, customized, or localized your language file, it's essential to perform a thorough review and correction process directly within the osFinancials/TurboCASH UI interface and all generated reports.

Quality Assurance checklist:

1. UI (User Interface) and Report Constraints: Check that all translated text fits correctly within the designated fields, buttons, and report columns/headers.
    - Action: Systematically navigate through all main windows, dialogue boxes, and generate and review all key reports (Income Statement, Balance Sheet, Trial Balance, Sales/Purchase journals, etc.).
    - Goal: Check for labels, buttons, menu items, column headers, or report descriptions that are overflowing or truncated (cut off). This is a common issue when your translation is significantly longer than the original English source text.
2. Terminology and Inconsistencies: Ensure that you have used the correct and consistent terminology throughout the entire application, and crucially, that the terms used in the UI match those displayed in the reports.

- Action: Create a glossary of key terms and verify every instance of their translation in both the user interface and the final printed reports.
- Key Terms to Check (Consistency):
  - Customer/Sales: Debtors, Customers, Sales, Quotes, Invoices, Delivery Notes.
  - Supplier/Purchases: Creditors, Suppliers, Purchases, Orders, Supplier Returns.
  - Inventory: Stock, Inventory, Items, Products.
  - Financial/Reporting: Document Types, Tax, VAT, GST, Spreadsheets, Budgets, Assets, Liabilities, Equity.

3. Spelling, Typos, and Punctuation: Even minor errors can undermine the professionalism and trustworthiness of the osFinancials/TurboCASH.
   - Action: Perform a dedicated proofreading pass on the UI elements and report output.
   - Goal: Correct all spelling mistakes, typographical errors, incorrect capitalization, and ensure punctuation (commas, periods, quotation marks, etc.) follows the standard conventions of the target language.
4. Compliance and Legal Context: Ensure all translated and customized text, especially that which appears on statutory documents and reports, adheres to local legal and financial requirements.
   - Action: Cross-reference translations of legal text, tax descriptions, and financial statement line items against local accounting standards (e.g., IFRS, GAAP).
   - Goal: Verify that translated legal disclaimers, document footers, or tax descriptions (required for tax returns) are legally accurate and compliant with the country's tax authority and reporting framework.
5. UI (User Interface) Constraints: Check that all translated text fits correctly within the designated fields and buttons.
   - Action: Systematically navigate through all main windows, dialogue boxes, and reports.
   - Goal: Check for labels, buttons, menu items, or column headers that are overflowing or truncated (cut off). This is a common issue when your translation is significantly longer than the original English source text.
6. Terminology and Inconsistencies: Ensure that you have used the correct and consistent terminology throughout the entire application, especially for accounting and business-critical terms.
   - Action: Create a glossary of key terms and verify every instance of their translation.
   - Key Terms to Check (Consistency):
     - Customer/Sales: Debtors, Customers, Sales, Quotes, Invoices, Delivery Notes.

    - Supplier/Purchases: Creditors, Suppliers, Purchases, Orders, Supplier Returns.
    - Inventory: Stock, Inventory, Items, Products.
    - Financial/Reporting: Document Types, Tax, VAT, GST, Spreadsheets, Budgets, Assets, Liabilities, Equity.
7. Spelling, Typos, and Punctuation: Even minor errors can undermine the professionalism and trustworthiness of the osFinancials/TurboCASH.
    - Action: Perform a dedicated proofreading pass, ideally using a grammar or spelling check tool where possible, or have a native speaker review the work.
    - Goal: Correct all spelling mistakes, typographical errors, incorrect capitalization, and ensure punctuation (commas, periods, quotation marks, etc.) follows the standard conventions of the target language.
8. Compliance and Legal Context: Ensure all translated and customized text adheres to local legal and financial requirements.
    - Action: Cross-reference translations of legal text, tax descriptions, and financial statements against local accounting standards (e.g., IFRS, GAAP).
    - Goal: Verify that translated legal disclaimers, document footers, or tax descriptions are legally accurate and compliant with the country's tax authority and reporting framework

Important Note on Using the Existing osFinancials Chart of Accounts Templates

Important Note on Using the Existing osFinancials Chart of Accounts Templates

Please be aware that there is no single, universal Chart of Accounts (COA) that fits every business. The template provided by osFinancials/TurboCASH is a powerful starting point, but it is essential that you customize it to reflect your specific business reality.

When using our template, you must review and adjust the following key areas:

1. Compliance with Local Accounting Standards

- The template provides a structure, but you are responsible for ensuring it meets local legal and financial reporting requirements.
- Action: Ensure that your COA is compliant and aligns with the Accounting Standards (e.g., IFRS, GAAP, VFRS, etc.) applicable in your country.

2. Business Ownership and Structure

- The template must be modified to match your legal entity type (e.g., Sole Proprietor, Partnership, Company/CC).
- Action: Review the Equity section and add or remove accounts as needed (e.g., Owner's Drawings, Partner Capital Accounts, Retained Earnings). Ensure all necessary tax accounts for your ownership structure are included.

3. Business-Specific Activities

- The standard accounts may not perfectly align with your specific sources of income, types of expenses, or the assets and liabilities you hold.
- Action: Carefully go through the Income Statement and Balance Sheet accounts. Add, Delete, or Disable accounts to ensure they accurately represent your business operations. For example, a restaurant will need different expense accounts than a consulting firm.

4. VAT/GST/Sales Tax Setup

- For accurate VAT (Value-Added Tax) / GST (General Sales tax) / Sales tax return preparation, the tax-related accounts and rates must be correct.
- Action: Verify that all VAT control and clearing accounts are present. Confirm that the VAT percentages (e.g., 0%, 15%) linked to your tax accounts align precisely with the requirements of your tax authority and the descriptions/reporting groups align with your official VAT/GST/Sales tax returns.

5. Financial Reporting Structure (Reporting Groups)

Reporting Groups are crucial tools used to structure the presentation of your key financial reports (Income Statement, Balance Sheet).

- Action: Review and customize Reporting Group 1 and Reporting Group 2. This ensures your financial statements are presented in a logical, meaningful, and professional format that meets your management and compliance needs.
- You can use the Up and Down buttons in Setup -> Groups or Setup -> Accounts to structure the presentation of your financial statements.
    - Each Account group must be assigned to a Financial category in Setup -> Financial categories.
    - Each account needs to be mapped (linked) to the correct account group.

Summary

Treat the template as a foundation. Taking the time to tailor it to your business during setup will save time, improve accuracy, and provide you with more meaningful financial information in the long run.

Considerations when designing a chart of accounts

Designing a chart of accounts is an important step in setting up an accounting system for a business. The chart of accounts provides a framework for organizing and categorizing financial transactions and helps in generating accurate financial reports. When designing a chart of accounts, there are several factors to consider:

1. Legal and regulatory requirements: Take into account the tax legislation, accounting standards, and frameworks mandated by the regulatory authorities in your country. Ensure that your chart of accounts aligns with these requirements to facilitate accurate reporting and compliance.
2. Business type: Consider the legal structure of your business (sole proprietorship, partnership, corporation, etc.) and any specific reporting requirements applicable to your business type. This may include separate categories for equity accounts, distributions, dividends, or partner capital accounts, depending on the structure.
3. Organizational structure: Take into account the structure of your organization, including any subsidiaries or departments that require separate reporting. Determine whether you need separate accounts for each entity or if a consolidated approach is sufficient.
4. Reporting requirements: Identify the financial reports you need to generate for internal and external stakeholders. Ensure that your chart of accounts aligns with the reporting requirements of regulatory authorities, tax agencies, and other relevant parties.
5. Industry-specific needs: Different industries have unique financial requirements and operational activities. Tailor your chart of accounts to reflect the specific needs of your industry. For example, a manufacturing business may have separate accounts for raw materials, work-in-progress, and finished goods, while a service-based business may focus more on revenue accounts and service-related expenses.
6. Operational activities: Consider the nature of your business operations and the key financial activities involved. Identify the essential accounts that reflect your revenue streams, expenses, assets, liabilities, and equity. Determine the level of detail required to track and analyze your financial transactions effectively.
7. Future scalability: Anticipate the growth and expansion of your business. Design your chart of accounts with scalability in mind, allowing for the addition of new accounts or reporting categories as your business evolves.

8. Consistency and standardization: Maintain consistency and standardization in your chart of accounts to ensure accurate and meaningful financial analysis and reporting. Use clear and concise account names and numbering systems that are easy to understand and navigate.
9. Integration with accounting software: If you're using accounting software, ensure that your chart of accounts aligns with the software's capabilities and structure. This will facilitate seamless data entry, reporting, and analysis.
10. Collaboration with accounting professionals: Consult with accounting professionals, such as certified public accountants (CPAs) or financial advisors, who can provide guidance based on their expertise and industry knowledge. They can help ensure that your chart of accounts meets regulatory requirements and best practices.

It's important to strike a balance between having a comprehensive chart of accounts that captures all necessary information and keeping it manageable and user-friendly. Regular review and adjustment of the chart of accounts may be necessary as the business evolves and financial reporting needs change. Regularly review and update your chart of accounts as your business evolves and financial reporting needs change. It's important to strike a balance between capturing necessary financial information and maintaining a manageable and user-friendly structure for day-to-day accounting operations.

bin/SQL/FIREBIRD folder updated

An update has been applied to the SQL files located in the '...bin/SQL/FIREBIRD/' folder to address a known issue. This update fixes the 'Dynamic SQL Error -303' bug, identified in version 5.1.0.233, by extending the field length in the BATTYPES table from 16 characters to 128 characters.

Comprehensive Update for Enhanced Compliance and Data Flexibility

The latest update to osFinancials/TurboCASH5.3 (5.1.0.249) introduces a significant enhancement for advanced users. The Customise your own Set of Books (Advanced)? option now supports field lengths of up to 128 characters for Account descriptions, Group descriptions, Messages, and other key fields.

This upgrade includes a full-scale realignment of all expressions and objects in Reportman reports. This effort ensures that every report in the main Reports menu, User Reports menu, Ledger Analyser, and Document layout files perfectly accommodates these new, longer fields without formatting issues.

This comprehensive work resolves the known 'Dynamic SQL Error -303' bug and ensures full compliance with major international accounting standards like IFRS, GAAP, French PCG, and OHADA. It allows for the seamless entry and import of detailed data, bringing osFinancials in line with and even ahead of leading competitors.

The new Create your own Set of Books Customise your own Set of Books (Advanced)? option with lager field lengths were introduced in osFinancials5.1.0.233/TurboCASH5.3 (Release Candidate 9).

osFinancials5.1.0.249 fixes the 'Dynamic SQL Error -303' bug, identified in version 5.1.0.233, by extending the field length in the BATTYPES table from 16 characters to 128 characters. It is scheduled to be included in the next TurboCASH5.3 (Release Candidate 10).

ADDED / FIXED

1. Updated TYPES table - Groups and Paper types:
   - ADDED Groups records - for Type 2 in the WTYPEPARENT column:
     - 1000 - Projects
     - 1002 - Cost centre 1
     - 1003 - Cost centre 2
     - 1004 - Languages
   - ADDED Paper types records - Added records - for Type 5 in the WTYPEPARENT column:
     - 55 - Till slip
     - 56 - New plain

2. TYPES table Descriptions: Edited the descriptions of records in the Types tab of Tools → Customise language (Setup ribbon) such as document types (i.e. Invoice, Credit note, Quote, Purchase, Supplier return and Order), groups names, etc. This is consistent with other templates (Sets of Books that can be downloaded). When you overtype the group name descriptions e.g. "Account Reporting Group1 Name" to "Account group 1", etc. in Setup → Groups, it will update the record's description in the Types tab of the "Customize languages" screen.

3. Batch types: The basic journals (such as Sales journal, Purchase journal and General journal) have been added.

4. Documents setup - Layout file point-of-sale: "DefaultA4" is the default setting and is not available in the " ...plug_ins\reports\DOCUMENTS\DOCUMENTS " folder- changed the default layout file to "POS - STARTSP100".

5. Documents setup - Batch types: The basic journals (such as Sales journal, Purchase journal) have been linked to each document type (Invoices, Credit notes, Purchases and Supplier returns)

6. Documents setup - Document numbers and Layout files: Default settings for documents (Invoices, Credit notes, Quotes, Purchases, Supplier returns and Orders) is already pre-set.

7. Calendar resource - The default Resource name is set to osFinancials5/TurboCASH5. The resource name links the events, tasks, etc. to a specific name in the Calendar. It will also print on the Calendar report. When you purchase and activate the Multi-User calendar (agenda) plugin, you will be able to define a resource for each user.

Croatian (hr-HR) Translation Review Table (1 - 500)

Croatian (hr-HR) Translation Review Table (1 - 500)

I have addressed several recurring issues in the original text:

- Character Encoding: Fixed "ae", "ee", "š ", and "ž " issues (e.g., raeun → račun).
- Terminology: Standardized accounting terms to match Croatian statutory language (e.g., using Potraž ivanja for Debtors and Obveze for Creditors).
- Grammar: Corrected cases and gender agreements.
- Currency: Per your locale, currency terms have been updated to reflect the Euro context where appropriate, though I kept "Kuna/Lipa" if specifically requested for legacy data.

Croatian (hr-HR) Translation Review Table (501 - 950)

This review focuses on standardizing the Croatian (hr-HR) translations to align with formal accounting practices and professional software terminology. Key corrections include fixing character encoding issues (e.g., replacing "ae" with "će" or "ee" with "če"), using "Konto" for accounts, and ensuring specific financial terms like "Credit Note" are translated as "Knjiž no odobrenje."

Croatian (hr-HR) Translation Review Table (951 - 1300)

Croatian (hr-HR) Translation Review Table (951 - 1300)

In reviewing these translations, I have focused on ensuring Croatian (hr-HR) professional accounting and bookkeeping standards (using terms compatible with the Croatian Financial Reporting Standards - HSFI).

I have corrected the character encoding issues (e.g., "ae" to "će", "oe" to "če") found in the original file. As requested, I have specifically updated terms related to "skupine/batches" to "temeljnice" to align with your update of the English source to "journal." I have also updated "Kreditori/Duž nici" to "Dobavljači/Kupci," which are the standard professional terms in Croatia.

Croatian (hr-HR) Translation Review Table (1700 - 2300)

Croatian (hr-HR) Translation Review Table (1700 - 2300)

In this update, I have continued to refine the terminology to align with Croatian accounting standards (Glavna knjiga, Temeljnica, Kupci/Dobavljači) and corrected several instances of corrupted character encoding (e.g., "ae" to "ć", "ue" to "č").

I have also corrected several logic errors in the original Croatian text where the meaning was reversed (e.g., ID 2152 where "Credit Note" was translated as "Delivery Note").

Croatian (hr-HR) Translation Review Table (2301 - 3000)

It looks like you have a comprehensive list of system messages, accounting terms, and interface labels that need some "polishing." In Croatian (hr-HR) professional software, especially for accounting, we prefer standard literary forms over regional dialects (e.g., using "Promijeni" instead of "Promjeni") and precise terminology (e.g., "Kupac" means Customer, while "Prilagođeno" means Custom).

I have also corrected several typos where character encoding issues occurred (like "Eetvrtak" which should be "Četvrtak").

OLDER INCORRECT TRANSLATIONS

Below is the review of the translations for the IDs 3001– 3400, specifically tailored for professional accounting terminology in Croatia (hr-HR).

I have cross-referenced these with the "Types table" instruction to ensure that if a document type changed, the corresponding Croatian term is reflected (e.g., using Temeljnica for Journal/Batch or Izvadak for Bank Statement).

Croatian (hr-HR) Translation Review Table (906301-END)

Here is the review of the accounting terminology for the Croatia (hr-HR) locale.

Key Terminology Notes:

- Debtor/Creditor: In Croatian accounting, these are primarily referred to as Kupci (Customers/Debtors) and Dobavljači (Suppliers/Creditors).
- Quotes: Translated as Ponude.
- Turnover: Translated as Promet.
- Credit Note: Translated as Odobrenje (or Knjiž no odobrenje).
- Currency: Per your saved instruction regarding the transition from "kn" (Kuna) to Euro, I have updated the currency placeholder to EUR.

Currency & Denomination Terminology (hr-HR)

Currency & Denomination Terminology (hr-HR)

Since Croatia officially joined the Eurozone on January 1, 2023, the currency used is the Euro. For financial accuracy and "Amount in words" generation, we must use the official Croatian singular and plural forms.

Following your full text requirement and the specific instruction for singular/base units, here are the translations for your currency labels.

ID / Label	English Source Context	Croatia (hr-HR) Corrected	Notes/Rationale
Label 157	Main denomination (e.g., Euro)	Euro	Singular: In Croatian, the base unit is "Euro". This remains the same in singular and plural for most financial contexts.
Label 158	Sub-denomination (e.g., Cent)	Cent	Singular: The sub-unit is "Cent".

1000003	$ (Currency symbol)	€	Official Symbol: The symbol for the Euro used in the Republic of Croatia.

Critical Accuracy for "Amount in Words"

In Croatian, when the system generates "Amount in words" (e.g., for receipts or bank journals), the grammar changes based on the number. If your system logic requires you to provide the plural forms for the "Amount in words" algorithm, they are as follows:

- 1 Euro: jedan euro
- 2-4 Euros: dva/tri/četiri eura
- 5+ Euros: pet eura
- Sub-units: 1 cent, 2-4 centa, 5+ centi

Formatting Standard

In Croatia, the currency symbol is typically placed after the amount with a non-breaking space (e.g., 100,00 €), whereas in English it is often placed before.

- Decimal Separator: Comma (,)
- Thousands Separator: Dot (.)

Note: Since ID 1000003 is often a system-wide constant, changing this to € will update all printed reports and on-screen transaction processing as discussed in our previous "Report" review.

UI Optimization (hr-HR)

ID 578

In the context of a professional Croatian ERP or accounting system, "Knjiž enje" is the correct technical term for "Post/Posting." However, if this string appears on a button or a sidebar with limited horizontal space, we can refine it to be more concise without losing its formal meaning.

Following your request to address UI constraints, here are the options for this ID:

ID	English Source	Full Translation	UI Optimized (Short)	Rationale
578	Post to other years	Knjiž enje u ostale godine	Knjiž i u ostale godine	The full version is a noun ("Posting to..."); the short version is a verb ("Post to..."). Both are professional, but the verb is shorter.

Key Considerations for this String:

- Action vs. Label: In Croatian UIs, if the string is a header/title, we use the noun (Knjiž enje). If the string is a button/action, we use the imperative verb (Knjiž i).
- Alternative (Ultra-Short): If space is extremely limited (e.g., a small icon button), you could even use U ostale godine, though this is less precise.

Professional Context:

This function is critical for cross-period reporting and adjustments. In Croatian accounting, users expect the word "Knjiž enje" or "Proknjiž i." Using the word "Post" (as a transliteration) would be considered unprofessional and incorrect.

Corrected Licensing & Registration Messages (hr-HR)

I apologize for slipping into Croatian in the previous turn. I will ensure all future responses remain in English while providing the specific hr-HR translations for your project.

Here are the corrected, full-text translations for your licensing messages, ensuring all placeholders like `<@APPNAME@>` and numerical constraints are preserved for financial and legal accuracy.

ID	English Source	Croatia (hr-HR) Corrected	Notes/Rationale
1968	This software is limited to 500 transactions or 500 documents! Please register and buy a licence for <@APPNAME@>.	Ovaj softver je ograničen na 500 transakcija ili 500 dokumenata! Molimo registrirajte se i kupite licencu za <@APPNAME@>.	Full Text: Restored the second "500" and added "registrirajte se" (register) to match the source exactly.
1969	Cannot have more than %s for this unregistered <@APPNAME@> copie %s! Please register and get your licence code!	Nije moguće imati više od %s za ovu neregistriranu kopiju softvera <@APPNAME@> %s! Molimo registrirajte se i nabavite svoj licencni kod!	Full Text: Restored the missing <@APPNAME@> placeholder and ensured both %s variables are positioned correctly for the UI.

Key Improvements & Technical Notes:

- ID 1968 Correction: The source explicitly states the limit applies to both transactions and documents individually. The previous translation was ambiguous; the corrected version clarifies that the 500-limit is specific to both types.
- ID 1969 Placeholder (Critical): As you noted, the <@APPNAME@> tag was missing. I have reinserted it. I also translated "copie" (copy) as "kopiju softvera" to make the message sound more professional in a technical context.
- Formal Tone: I used the formal imperative "registrirajte se" (Register yourselves/Please register) which is the standard for professional Croatian software interfaces.

Licensing Context Check:

Since these messages appear when a user reaches a limit, you might also want to verify the labels for the "Register" button itself. In Croatian, these are typically:

- Registriraj se (Informal) or Registrirajte se (Formal/Recommended).
- Kupi licencu (Buy license).

Full Text Translation Review (hr-HR)

Reviewed the translation for ID 3422. You are correct; the original was truncated and stopped mid-sentence. Following your full text requirement, I have provided the complete, formal translation that covers the entire English source.

ID	English source	Croatia (hr-HR) original	Croatia (hr-HR) corrected	Notes/Rationale
3422	You are not yet registered to post on our forum! You will need to register <@APPNAME@> to use that username password to login to our forum or shop.	Još niste registrirani za objavu na naš em forumu! Morate registrirati <@APPNAME@>...	Još niste registrirani za objavu na naš em forumu! Morate registrirati <@APPNAME@> kako biste koristili to korisničko ime i lozinku za prijavu na naš forum ili u trgovinu.	Full Text: Completed the sentence. Used "trgovinu" for shop and maintained the placeholder <@APPNAME@>.

Key Improvements:

- Completeness: The original ended with an ellipsis (...). The corrected version now includes the full instruction regarding the username and password usage for the forum and shop.
- Grammar: Used the formal "kako biste koristili" (so that you can use) to maintain a professional and helpful tone.
- Consistency: "Shop" is translated as "trgovinu" (standard for e-commerce/retail) rather than "dućan" (colloquial).

Related UI Check

This string mentions a username and password. In Croatian, these are typically:

- Korisničko ime (Username)
- Lozinka (Password)

As this relates to your user registration flow, please ensure that the labels for "Username" and "Password" on your login screens match the terminology used in this message to avoid user confusion.

Corrected UI Instructions and Brackets (hr-HR)

You are absolutely right. In software localization, maintaining functional punctuation like square brackets [ ] is critical because they often represent physical buttons or keyboard shortcuts in the UI. Missing or incorrect brackets can confuse the user.

Following your full text requirement and the specific fix for the missing placeholders, here are the corrected translations for Croatia (hr-HR).

3371	If you wish to clear (remove) all documents, click [Yes]. If you wish to retain all documents and set them to unposted, click [No].	Ako ž elite obrisati dokumente...	Ako ž elite izbrisati (ukloniti) sve dokumente, kliknite [Da]. Ako ž elite zadrž ati sve dokumente i postaviti ih kao neproknjiž ene, kliknite [Ne].	Full Text: Expanded "obrisati" to include "izbrisati (ukloniti)" to match the English "clear (remove)". Added "sve" (all) for accuracy.
2435	Click [&Snooze] to be reminded again in:	Kliknite &Odgodi za ponovni podsjetnik za:	Kliknite [&Odgodi] za ponovni podsjetnik za:	Missing Brackets: Restored the [ ] around the button label and kept the & for the keyboard shortcut.

Key Technical Improvements:

- ID 3371 (Clarity and Context):
  - Izbrisati vs. Obrisati: While both mean delete, "izbrisati" is more common for data removal in software.
  - Parenthetical text: Restored (ukloniti) to match the source's "(remove)".
  - Full context: The original was missing the emphasis on "all documents" (sve dokumente).
- ID 2435 (UI Mapping):
  - The square brackets [ ] are now restored. This ensures that when the user looks at the screen, the text in the message matches the visual appearance of the button they need to click.

- The & symbol is preserved before "Odgodi" to ensure the Alt+O shortcut continues to function.

Consistency Check:

In the previous turn, we discussed "Unposted" (neproknjiž ene) documents. In ID 3371, this term is used again. It is vital that this remains consistent across the entire application so users understand that "unposted" always translates to "neproknjiž eno" in a financial context.

Internal table names - HandyTools - Should be retained

For advanced tools like the HandyTools plugin, technical accuracy is the priority over linguistic elegance. Since advanced users need to map these functions to the physical database structure, retaining the exact table names (Transact, BatCon, Dochead) and field names (FTaxAmt) is essential.

Following your instruction to use single quotes for exact table names and maintaining a professional tone for Croatia (hr-HR), here are the corrected translations.

Advanced Technical Translations (hr-HR)

ID	English Source	Croatia (hr-HR) Corrected	Notes/Rationale
903146	Set Transact previous years	Postavi 'Transact' prethodnih godina	Kept table name in quotes. Used "Postavi" (Set/Establish).
903153	Correct Transact line id	Ispravi ID linije u 'Transact'	Formatted to show the ID belongs to the 'Transact' table.
903158	Remove BatCon not in Transact	Ukloni 'BatCon' koji nije u 'Transact'	Both technical table names are wrapped in single quotes.

903147	Update Dochead FTaxAmt	Až uriraj 'Dochead' 'FTaxAmt'	Retained the table name in quotes and the specific field name exactly as in the backend.

Technical Rationale for Advanced Users

- Database Mapping: In the TurboCASH / osFinancials database schema, `Transact` is the core transaction table, `Dochead` is the document header table, and `BatCon` relates to batch control. Translating these would make the "HandyTools" feature unusable for database administrators.
- Field Names: `FTaxAmt` (Foreign Tax Amount) is a specific column name. I have left it without quotes to distinguish it from a table name, but kept the casing identical to the backend.
- Action Verbs:
  - Ispravi (Correct): Used for fixing data integrity issues.
  - Ukloni (Remove): Used for deleting orphaned records.
  - Až uriraj (Update): The standard SQL-equivalent term for modifying existing data.

UI and Safety Note

Because these tools modify the backend directly, the terminology must be precise. Using 'Transact' (with quotes) clearly signals to the user that they are about to perform an operation on that specific database object.

To maintain consistency for your advanced users in the HandyTools plugin, I have updated these strings to include the `'sysvars'` table name wrapped in single quotes. This ensures that database administrators can immediately identify the target table in the backend.

Advanced Technical Translations: 'sysvars' Table (hr-HR)

ID	English Source	Croatia (hr-HR) Corrected	Notes/Rationale
903102	Sysvars	'Sysvars'	Table Name: Retained exact backend name in single quotes.
903156	Clear Sysvars parameters	Očisti parametre u 'Sysvars'	Technical: Used "Očisti" (Clear) and specified the table

903168	Reset Sysvars	Resetiraj 'sysvars'	context. Action: Used the localized technical verb "Resetiraj."

Technical Rationale for the 'Sysvars' Table

In osFinancials / TurboCASH, the `sysvars` table holds critical global configuration settings, such as current financial year dates, next document numbers, and system-wide flags.

- Punctuation: By using 'sysvars', we follow your rule for menu/table paths and avoid any confusion with general "system variables."
- Safety: Advanced tools that "Clear" or "Reset" this table are powerful; having the literal table name helps the user double-check their action against the database documentation.

UI Constraint Note

For ID 903168, "Resetiraj 'sysvars'" is short and fits well on a standard utility button. If the button is extremely small, you can use the English word "Reset" (e.g., Reset 'sysvars'), as it is a widely accepted technical loanword in Croatian IT circles.

UI Constrants - HandyTools for Advanced users

In the HandyTools context, these operations are heavy-duty data maintenance tasks. For UI constraints, especially in sidebars or utility windows, we can shorten the Croatian text while maintaining the technical precision required for advanced users.

I have optimized these to use standard accounting abbreviations like kontni plan and ensured the "Open Item" terminology is consistent.

UI Optimized Technical Translations (hr-HR)

ID	English Source	Full Translation	UI Optimized (Short)	Rationale
903133	Consolidate closed years - documents and stock	Konsolidacija zaključenih godina – dokumenti i zalihe	Konsolidiraj zaklj. god. (dokum. i zalihe)	Shortened "zaključenih godina" and "dokumenti" using standard abbreviations.
903135	Remove debtors	Uklonite kupce	Ukloni kupce izvan	"Izvan kontnog not in account	kojih nema u kontnom planu	kontnog plana	plana" (outside the chart of accounts) is shorter and technically accurate.

903136	Remove creditors not in account	Uklonite dobavljače kojih nema u kontnom planu	Ukloni dobavlj. izvan kont. plana	Used "dobavlj." and "kont." to save significant space.
903137	Set all debtors to open item	Postavite sve kupce na metodu otvorenih stavki	Sve kupce na otvorene stavke	"Otvorene stavke" is the standard term for Open Item accounting in Croatia.
903138	Set all creditors to open item	Postavite sve dobavljače na metodu otvorenih stavki	Sve dobavlj. na otvorene stavke	Parallel shortening to ID 903137.

Terminology Notes for UI

- Kontni plan (Chart of Accounts): This is often a very long phrase. In tight UI spots, we use "kont. plan".
- Otvorene stavke (Open Items): This is the most critical term for Croatian accountants. It refers to tracking individual invoices rather than just a total balance.
- Abbreviation "zaklj.": This is the standard way to shorten zaključeno (closed/finalized) in financial reporting.

Functional Grouping

These specific IDs (903135– 903138) are often grouped together in a "Cleanup" or "Repair" menu. By starting with the same verb or noun structure (e.g., "Ukloni..." or "Sve..."), you make it easier for the user to scan the list.

UI Optimized Technical Translations (hr-HR)

To address your UI constraints while maintaining the specific technical nature of these advanced maintenance tools, I have shortened the Croatian phrases. For ID 903154, I have simplified the "Reverse bug" explanation to ensure it fits within a standard dialog box or menu.

ID	English Source	Full Translation	UI Optimized (Short)	Rationale
903120	Remove stock not in documents	Ukloni zalihe kojih nema u dokumentima	Ukloni zalihe izvan dokum.	"Izvan dokum." is a standard abbreviation for "outside of documents."
903151	Auto-link all zero debtors	Automatski povež ite sve kupce sa saldom nula	Auto-povež i kupce s nulom	"Auto-povež i" is a common technical compound word in Croatian UI.
903154	Correct Incl./Excl. Tax amount (Reverse bug)	Ispravite iznos s/bez poreza (pogreš ka obrnutog knjiž enja)	Ispravi porez (Reverse bug)	Kept "Reverse bug" in English as it refers to a specific system logic error; shortened the tax description.

Key Technical Adjustments

- ID 903151 (Zero Balance): In Croatian accounting, "saldom nula" is the formal term, but for a button, "s nulom" (with zero) is much more compact and instantly understood by accountants.
- ID 903154 (Tax Correction): The phrase "pogreš ka obrnutog knjiž enja" is very long. By using "Ispravi porez" (Correct tax), we save space, and keeping "(Reverse bug)" allows the advanced user to identify the specific database fix they are applying.
- ID 903120 (Stock/Documents): Shortening dokumentima to dokum. is standard practice in ERP lists to prevent text bleeding into other columns.

Professional Note on "Reverse Bug"

If your advanced users are used to the term "Reverse bug" from English support forums or documentation, it is often better to keep that specific phrase in brackets rather than translating it into a long Croatian sentence that might not map back to the known issue.

Plugin Terminology & Corrections (hr-HR)

This is a crucial distinction. In osFinancials / TurboCASH, the "Charter" plugin refers to Charts and Graphs (visual data representation), not travel or maritime charters. Translating it as "Charter" (travel) would be a significant error for a Croatian user.

Following the logic of your Spanish example, we will use Dodaci (the professional Croatian term for Plugins/Add-ons) for the general category, while retaining specific technical plugin names in English where they represent specific products or brand names.

ID	English Source	Croatia (hr-HR) Corrected	Notes / Rationale
1805	Plugins	Dodaci	Standard: "Dodaci" is the professional ERP term for Plugins/Add-ons.
3377	Generic plugins	Generički dodaci	Corrected for consistency with ID 1805.
3405	Stock plugins	Dodaci za zalihe	Professional: Uses "Zalihe" (Inventory/Stock) as per Group A standards.
3406	Document plugins	Dodaci za dokumente	Correct.
3408	Driving school plugin	Driving school plugin	Retained: Technical product name.
3410	Dutch Tax plugin	Dutch Tax plugin	Retained: Technical/Regional product name.
-	Charter (Charts)	Grafikoni i dijagrami	Correction: Translated based on function (Graphs/Charts), not "Charter".

Full Text & UI Optimized Review (hr-HR)

3117	Unregistered version! Please buy this plugin...	Neregistrirana verzija! Kupite ovaj dodatak na https://www.osfinancials.org/en/webshop i podržite razvoj <@APPNAME@>.	Removed "Molimo" (Please) to sound more direct, as in your Spanish example.
3118	This demo plugin allows %s records...	Ovaj demo dodatak omogućuje unos %s zapisa. Ako trebate više, kupite proizvod na...	Used "Zapisa" (Records) and "Dodatak" (Plugin).
3281	Plugin mass action	Grupna radnja dodatka	"Grupna radnja" is the standard for "Mass action."
3418	Plugin load list	Popis učitavanja dodataka	Professional technical term.
3419	Activate plugin	Aktiviraj dodatak	Direct imperative.
3420	Deactivate plugin	Deaktiviraj dodatak	Direct imperative.

Correcting the "Charter" Misconception

In Croatian, "Charter" refers strictly to renting a boat or plane. If the plugin's purpose is to generate visual data (Bar charts, Pie charts), the term must be:

- Grafikoni (Charts/Graphs)
- Izvještaji s grafikonima (Reports with charts)

Why "Dodaci" instead of "Pluginovi"?

While "Pluginovi" is used in casual tech talk, "Dodaci" is the term used by Microsoft, Adobe, and major ERP providers in Croatia. It sounds integrated and stable, whereas "Plugin" sounds like an external, unlocalized tool.

Corrected Polite Translation (hr-HR)

To maintain consistency with the English source's tone while adhering to professional Croatian software standards, we will re-insert the polite form.

In Croatian, the word "Molimo" (We please/Please) at the start of a sentence is the standard way to maintain a polite, non-intrusive tone, especially when asking a user to make a purchase.

ID	English Source	Croatia (hr-HR) Corrected	Notes / Rationale
3117	Unregistrirana verzija! Please buy this plugin...	Neregistrirana verzija! Molimo kupite ovaj dodatak na https://www.osfinancials.org/en/webshop i podržite razvoj <@APPNAME@>.	Polite Tone: Added "Molimo" to match the "Please" in the source and maintain a supportive user experience.

Politeness in Croatian UI

While technical "HandyTools" often benefit from direct commands, customer-facing messages regarding registration and licensing are better received when they include:

- Molimo (Please): Softens the request for payment.
- Hvala (Thank you): Often used in success messages.
- Vaš/Vaša (Your): Personalizes the experience (e.g., Vaša licenca instead of just Licenca).

Comparison of Tone:

- Direct: Kupite ovaj dodatak. (Buy this plugin. - Sounds like a command).
- Polite (Recommended): Molimo kupite ovaj dodatak. (Please buy this plugin. - Sounds like a request for support).

UI Constraint Reminder for these Strings:

Many of these strings are Warning/Error Messages.

- In Croatia, we use "Molimo" to soften a negative error message.
- If space is tight (e.g., ID 3120, 3121, 3122), you can use the abbreviation "Mol.", but it is generally better to keep the full word "Molimo" to avoid looking like a typo - Correction = Since IDs 3120, 3121, and 3122 are displayed within pop-up messages or status dialogs rather than fixed-width button labels or narrow table columns, horizontal space is usually flexible. In this context, using abbreviations would be unnecessary and could detract from the professional, polite tone we want to establish. We will strictly use the full word "Molimo" for these messages.

Terminology Alignment Note:

In ID 3076, I used "artikli" for "stock" because, in the context of grouping items, Croatian users identify better with "artikli" (items) than "zalihe" (stock levels).

Corrections/Reviews - Set of Books

Reviews/Corrections - Set of Books - The Problem with "Skup knjiga"

This is a crucial catch. In Croatian accounting and ERP contexts, the term "Skup knjiga" (though a literal translation of "Set of Books") sounds slightly amateur or like a literal translation from English.

In Croatia, the professional terminology for a database containing all accounting records for a specific legal entity is usually "Poslovne knjige" (Business Books) or, more technically in software, "Baza podataka" (Database). However, "Poslovne knjige" is the most authentic term for the user interface.

The Problem with "Skup knjiga"

- "Skup" implies a "set" or "cluster" in a mathematical or general sense.
- "Poslovne knjige" is the legally and professionally recognized term in the Croatian Accounting Act (Zakon o računovodstvu) for the entirety of the records (General Ledger, Journals, etc.) for an entity.

Proposed Terminology Alignment

I have updated the list below to use "Poslovne knjige" (plural) for the general concept and "Poslovna knjiga" (singular) where it refers to a specific instance or "A Set of Books."

I will now perform a full audit and correction of all "Set of Books" strings to align them with professional Croatian accounting terminology (Poslovne knjige). I will ensure no text is truncated and that all questions from the English source are fully translated.

Set of Books Translation Audit (hr-HR Professional Terminology)

I will now perform a full audit and correction of every ID provided, specifically enforcing the singular form ("Poslovna knjiga") for each instance.

In Croatian, shifting from plural to singular requires adjusting the gender and number of adjectives (e.g., nove → novu) and verbs (e.g., postoje → postoji). I have also ensured that the full English source text is reflected in the corrected column without any truncation.

Key Improvements Made:

1. Professional Polish: Replaced "Skup" (Set/Cluster) with "Poslovne knjige" (Business/Accounting Books). This is exactly what a Croatian accountant expects to see in a professional ERP.
2. Grammar Alignment: Adjusted the verbs and adjectives to match the plural feminine gender of "knjige" (e.g., izrađene instead of izrađen).
3. Consistency: I have unified the terms across IDs 3003 and 3004 (which previously used "seta") to match the rest of the file.

Backup & Restore UI Audit (Concise & Professional)

Backup & Restore UI Audit (Concise & Professional)

You are spot on—"Sigurnosna kopija" is technically correct, but for a UI button or a menu item, it is incredibly long and clunky. It often causes text to bleed out of the button boundaries.

In modern Croatian ERPs (like Pantheon or Synesis), the professional standard is to use "Arhiviranje" for Backup and "Povrat" or "Vraćanje" for Restore. This is punchier and fits the UI much better.

Here is the comprehensive audit of the Backup (Arhiviranje) and Restore (Povrat) terminology.

I have applied the professional Croatian accounting standards, ensured all punctuation (! and ?) and nuances (like "stop" or "whole folder") are preserved, and strictly followed the singular "poslovna knjiga" requirement.

Key UI Improvements:

1. Horizontal Space: By replacing "Sigurnosna kopija" (17 chars) with "Arhiva" (6 chars) or "Arhiviranje" (11 chars), we reduce the width by nearly 40%.
2. Terminology: Accountants in Croatia are used to "Arhiviranje podataka" (archiving data) as the standard menu option for making a safety copy.
3. Consistency: Using "Povrat" instead of "Vraćanje" saves space on the Restore side.

In professional Croatian terminology, while "E-mail" is understood, "E-poš ta" (Electronic Mail) is the standard formal term for software interfaces and official accounting correspondence.

I have ensured that all technical nuances—such as "context menu," "separate with ;," and password reset details—are preserved in full, with correct punctuation and professional tone.

Key Improvements:

- "Poš iljatelj" vs "Š aljivac": This was a critical error. In ID 1951, the original translation used a word that means "prankster" or "joker." It has been corrected to "Poš iljatelj" (Sender).
- Filtar: In Croatian, the professional noun for a filter is "Filtar" (with an 'a'), whereas "Filter" is often seen as a direct English import.
- Consistency: All instances of "E-mail" in prose have been converted to "E-poš ta" or "e-poruka" for a uniform, high-quality localization.

UI Constraints - Email

When dealing with plugins and menu items, long descriptive phrases will likely break the UI layout or be cut off. Since "E-mail Pro" is a specific plugin name, we should treat it as a proper noun and keep the surrounding text as tight as possible.

Here is the audit optimized for extreme UI constraints, while maintaining professional terminology.

ID	English source	Croatia (hr-HR) Previous	Croatia (hr-HR) Optimized	Notes/Rationale
3177	E-mail signed document	Slanje potpisanog dokumenta e-poš tom	E-poš ta: Potpisani dok.	Extreme Shortening: Uses a colon and abbreviation "dok." to fit narrow menus.
3248	Test E-mail to Extra CC	Testna e-poš ta na dodatnu CC adresu	Test e-poš te na dodatni CC	Removed "adresu" and "na" to save space; "CC" implies the address.
3394	Document E-mail Pro	Slanje dokumenata e-poš tom Pro	Dokument E-mail Pro	Plugin Name: Kept "E-mail Pro" as the brand and simplified "Document" to the noun.
3478	Sync E-mail	Sinkronizacija e-poš te	Sinkroniziraj e-poš tu	Verb form: Usually 2-3 characters shorter than the noun "Sinkronizacija."
3258	Setup E-mail Pro	Postavke sustava E-mail Pro	Postavke: E-mail Pro	Uses colon to separate action from the plugin name.
3259	E-mail Pro	E-mail Pro	E-mail Pro	Correct: Brand/Plugin name should not be translated.

UI Strategy for these IDs:

- ID 3177 (E-mail signed document): The previous version was 35 characters. The optimized version is 22 characters. In Croatian, "Slanje... e-poš tom" is the biggest space-killer. Using the prefix "E-poš ta:" is the standard way to handle this in tight UIs.
- ID 3394 & 3258 (E-mail Pro): Since this is a plugin, I have reverted "E-poš ta" back to "E-mail" only where it is part of the product name E-mail Pro to ensure the user identifies the plugin correctly.
- Abbreviations: I used "dok." for dokument. This is a standard, universally understood abbreviation in Croatian accounting and IT.

Journal Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

Journal Terminology Audit (Standardizing to Dnevnik)

Based on our discussion to prioritize "Dnevnik" for linguistic consistency across the UI, while ensuring the Singular/Plural forms strictly match the English source, here is the corrected audit.

I have standardized all instances of "Journal" to "Dnevnik" to ensure that whether the entry is manual or automatic, the user sees a consistent terminology for the book of prime entry.

OLDER - Journal Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

In formal Croatian accounting, the English term Journal usually refers to two things: the book of prime entry (Dnevnik) or the specific accounting document used for manual entries (Temeljnica).

For a general "Journal Entry" or specific journals like "Sales Journal," the term Temeljnica (or Dnevnik for the ledger/listing) is the professional standard. I have corrected the previous "Grupni unos" (Group entry) which was a literal and incorrect translation. I have also strictly aligned the singular and plural forms with your English source.

Debtor (Customer) Terminology Review (hr-HR)

Debtor (Customer) Terminology Review (hr-HR)

In Croatian accounting, the English term "Debtor" is most commonly translated as Kupac (Buyer/Customer). However, when referring to the formal category in financial statements or the general ledger, we use Potraž ivanja od kupaca (Accounts Receivable).

Debtor Terminology Review (hr-HR)

To maintain professional consistency and follow your full text requirement, I have reviewed the translations below. I have ensured that formal terms like "Control Account" are accurately rendered as Kontrolni konto and "Credit Limit" as Kreditni limit.

Key Concept: Debtors vs. Accounts Receivable

In the Croatian UI, we use Kupci for labels and buttons that refer to the person/company. We use Potraž ivanja od kupaca for accounts and reports where we are discussing the money owed to the business.

Understanding Control Accounts

As seen in ID 553 and ID 1124, the Kontrolni konto (Control account) is the general ledger link for all sub-ledger entries. If this link is corrupted, the balance sheet will not match the individual customer balances.

Customer Terminology Review (hr-HR)

In Croatian ERP systems, "Customer" and "Debtor" are often both translated as Kupac. While "Debtor" has a more accounting-focused nuance (someone who owes money), "Customer" is the broader commercial term.

Following your full text requirement and ensuring professional consistency, I have reviewed the translations below. I have paid special attention to the formal imperative (polite forms) and accounting accuracy regarding OIB and ledger accounts.

Symmetry with "Debtor" (Kupac)

As established in our previous review, Kupac serves as the translation for both "Customer" and "Debtor". To differentiate them in the user's mind without using jargon, we focus on the context:

- Commercial context (Sales/Orders): Customer -> Kupac
- Financial context (Aging/Balances): Debtor -> Kupac (or formally Potraž ivanja od kupaca)

Technical Note on "On Hold" (ID 3393)

In Croatian business practice, "Kupac na čekanju" implies a status where the customer is temporarily blocked from further orders, usually due to unpaid invoices or exceeding a credit limit. Adding the term "Hold" in parentheses is common in localized ERPs to assist users familiar with international English standards.

Creditor (Supplier) Terminology Review (hr-HR)

Creditor (Supplier) Terminology Review (hr-HR)

In Croatian accounting, "Creditor" is translated as Dobavljač (Supplier). In formal financial reporting (the General Ledger), the category for money owed to them is Obveze prema dobavljačima (Accounts Payable).

Creditor Terminology Review (hr-HR)

Consistent with our "Debtor/Customer" review, I have ensured all imperatives are formal, abbreviations are expanded, and technical terms like "Control Account" and "Remittance" are rendered accurately.

Key Takeaway: Remittance vs. Doznaka

In ID 1089 and 906551, the English "Remittance Advise" is a notification sent to a supplier explaining which invoices are being paid. In Croatia, the formal banking and accounting term for this is Doznaka (or Obavijest o doznaci).

Supplier Terminology Review (hr-HR)

In Croatian ERP systems, the terms "Supplier" and "Creditor" are both translated as Dobavljač. The specific document "Supplier Return" is a Povratnica dobavljaču, which serves as the mirror image of a "Credit Note" from the customer's perspective.

Following your full text requirement and ensuring professional consistency, I have reviewed the translations below. I have standardized the use of "Iznos" (Amount) instead of abbreviations and ensured the formal polite imperative is used for actions.

Understanding "Plain" (ID 906234)

In software report settings, "Plain" usually refers to printing on plain A4 paper without a pre-printed company letterhead. In Croatian, this is best described as "Običan papir".

Preferred Supplier vs. Primary Supplier

We have used Primarni dobavljač (IDs 3094, 3268). This is the standard in Croatia for the "main" supplier of an item, as opposed to secondary alternatives.

UI Components Diagram

To help with the "Report Designer" IDs (21000 range), here is a visual reference for how these sections are typically organized in a layout:

Understanding Report Designer Components

In technical reporting modules like Reportman, specific terminology for sections is vital for the user to build a functional layout.

- Subreport (Podizvješ taj): A report embedded within another report to show related data (ID 21125).
- Two pass report (Izvješ taj u dva prolaza): A report that calculates totals first and then renders the data (ID 21111).
- Metafile report (Izvješ taj metadatoteke): A graphical representation of a report usually used for archiving or high-fidelity previews (ID 21217).

Reporting Decimals

In ID 1260 and 2908, the system asks for "Reporting decimals." In Croatia, while the currency (Euro) uses 2 decimals, internal reports for unit prices or quantities often require up to 4 or 6 decimals to ensure precision in manufacturing and high-volume trade.

Budget Related Terminology (hr-HR)

In Croatian financial contexts, "Proračun" is the correct term for Budget. While "Budž et" is sometimes used colloquially, "Proračun" is the standard professional term used in accounting and public finance.

Following your full text requirement and the instruction to retain plugin names/consistency, here is the reviewed table for budget-related IDs.

23	&Budgets	&Proračuni	&Proračuni	Correct.

Financial Context Note: Performance vs. Realization

In these translations, we use two terms for "Actuals":

1. Izvrš enje (Performance): Typically used when looking at how the budget was executed over time.
2. Ostvareno / Realizacija (Actual / Realization): Used when comparing the hard numbers of the budget against the final results.

Reporting on Budgets

When these budgets are pulled into the Report Manager (as discussed in the previous step), the "Budget vs Actual" report is one of the most critical documents for financial year-end analysis.

Stock & Inventory Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

Stock & Inventory Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

In Croatian professional accounting and logistics, Stock is referred to as Zaliha (singular, refers to the concept or specific stock of an item) or Zalihe (plural, refers to the inventory as a whole or multiple stock items).

Individual items are best described as Artikli (Items). I have standardized "Stock Item" to Artikl, "Stock Code" to Š ifra artikla, and ensured that "Stock Movement" uses the professional term Promet. I have also corrected "Cost of Sales" to Troš ak prodane robe and "Stock Count" to the formal term Inventura.

Key Summary of Stock Logic

In Croatia, we categorize items as Artikli (Items). The physical quantity is called Zaliha (Stock). When we count them, it is Inventura. When they move in or out, it is Promet.

Re-Evaluating Stock Type Options (hr-HR)

I appreciate the clarification. If these items are still fundamentally stock items—meaning they are part of the inventory registry, appear on reports, and can have accounting movements like Cost of Sales—but simply have certain automated physical tracking features disabled (like strict quantity validation or specific warehouse lockdowns), then the original translation "(bez zaliha)" is indeed the most appropriate.

In a software UI, "(bez zaliha)" acts as a concise flag that distinguishes these types from the "Standard" or "Physical" stock behavior without making incorrect assumptions about the accounting ledger.

2921	Sales (no stock)	Prodaja (bez zaliha)	Prodaja (bez zaliha)	Correct: Retaining original. It acts as a clear marker for a specific stock behavior type.
2922	Purchase (no stock)	Nabava (bez zaliha)	Nabava (bez zaliha)	Correct: Consistent with Sales.
3143	Option item (no stock)	Stavka opcije (bez zaliha)	Opcijski artikl (bez zaliha)	Full Text: Changed "Stavka opcije" to "Opcijski artikl" to match our "Artikl" (Item) standard, while keeping the "(bez zaliha)" flag.

Why "(bez zaliha)" is the safest UI choice here:

- UI Familiarity: It matches the English "no stock" 1:1, which is helpful if the user is looking at English documentation.
- Flexibility: It doesn't explicitly claim that accounting is skipped (unlike "ne-skladiš na"), it simply says the "stock" aspect is handled differently for this specific item type.
- Professionalism: It is short, clean, and fits easily inside parentheses in selection menus.

Summary of the "Artikl" Standard applied here:

- For ID 3143, using Artikl instead of "Stavka" (Line/Entry) is more accurate because this refers to the definition of the item itself in the master file, not just a line on a document.

Corrected ID 3312 (Specific Field Reference)

In many ERP systems, you can have multiple preferred suppliers (e.g., Supplier 1, Supplier 2, etc.). If the software logic specifically requires "Supplier 1" to be filled, or if the error message is specifically identifying that "Supplier 1" is the missing field despite "Supplier 2" being present, we must keep the number "1" to ensure the user knows exactly which field needs correction.

3312	No default supplier 1 for these stock items! Please correct first!	Nema zadanog dobavljača 1 za ove artikle! Prvo ispravite!	Nema zadanog dobavljača 1 za ove artikle! Prvo ispravite!	State correct. Reinstating the "1" to match the specific software requirement for the primary supplier field.

Logic for Multiple Suppliers

In professional Croatian accounting and procurement, the hierarchy of suppliers is handled as follows:

- Zadani dobavljač 1: Primary/Default Supplier.
- Zadani dobavljač 2: Secondary/Alternative Supplier.

If the system is generating a purchase order or a reorder report, it usually looks for Dobavljač 1 first. Even if you have a Dobavljač 2, the missing primary field will trigger this error.

Final Verification of the "Š ifra" and "Artikl" Standard

To ensure this message is 100% consistent with our previous work:

- We use Artikle (Items) because "Stock items" are stored in the master file.
- We use Zadana š ifra dobavljača (Default supplier code) if referring to the identifier within this context.

Corrected Messages (Full Text Restoration)

We must prioritize clarity so the user knows exactly which record is being discussed and why an action is happening.

Following your direction to avoid simplification and maintain the full text, here are the corrected IDs.

3076	There's still stock using this group!	Postoje artikli koji koriste ovu grupu!	Još uvijek postoje artikli koji koriste	Full Text: Restored "Još uvijek" (There's Please remove first!	Prvo ih uklonite!	ovu grupu! Prvo ih uklonite!	still) to convey that the group is not empty.

3083	This item is out of stock! Auto adjusting quantity!	Artikl nije na zalihi! Automatska prilagodba količine!	Ovaj artikl nije na zalihi! Automatska prilagodba količine!	Full Text: Restored "Ovaj" (This) to specifically point to the item currently being processed.

Why "Ovaj" and "Još uvijek" Matter in UI Messages

In a professional environment, messages should not feel like "chopped" telegrams.

- Ovaj (This): Confirms to the user that the error applies to the specific item they are currently looking at or have just scanned.
- Još uvijek (Still): Indicates a state that hasn't changed yet, prompting the user to take action (reassigning items) before they can proceed with deleting a group.

Standardizing "Stock" vs. "Item" in Messages

Based on our previous decisions, we use Artikl in these messages because the system is checking for specific records (items) assigned to a group or out of quantity.

Context	English	Croatian
Record-specific	This item is...	Ovaj artikl je...

Corrected ID 3133 (Full Instructional Text)

To maintain your standard of full text for clarity, we must avoid refining the message for length if it omits the specific instructional details found in the English source. The user needs to know exactly how the field behaves—specifically that it subtracts from the "current stock in the quote/offer."

ID	English source	Croatia (hr-HR) original	Croatia (hr-HR) corrected	Notes/Rationale
3133	If you want to reserve some stock, this field will be	Ako ž elite rezervirati dio zaliha, ovo polje će	Ako ž elite rezervirati dio zaliha, ovo polje će	State correct. This provides the full explanation without subtracted from current stock in offer!	se oduzeti od trenutne zalihe u ponudi!	se oduzeti od trenutne zalihe u ponudi!	simplification, ensuring the user understands the mathematical impact on the stock levels in the offer.

Key Terminology for Reservations

In Croatian ERP systems, "Reservations" are high-stakes actions. Using full text ensures there is no confusion:

- Oduzeti (Subtract/Deduct): Explicitly states the operation.
- Trenutne zalihe (Current stock): Confirms which value is being targeted.
- U ponudi (In offer/quote): Specifies the document type where this reservation logic is active.

Summary of established standards applied here:

- Module level: We use "Zaliha" (Stock) because reservations affect the inventory levels of the module.
- Full Text: We restored the conditional "Ako" (If) and the full result of the action to match the English intent perfectly.

Corrected SQL/Module Context IDs

Since these IDs refer to SQL statements that act upon the database at the module level, they are not limited to just "item records" (Artikli). They interact with the entire inventory data structure (Zalihe), including types, movements, and various item categories.

In a technical/developer context within Croatian software, we use "Zalihe" to denote the inventory module or the data set as a whole when writing queries.

3097	Limit stock SQL	Ograniči SQL zalihe	Ograniči SQL za zalihe	Module Level: Added "za" (for) to clarify that the SQL restriction applies to the Stock module data set,

3158	SQL only for stock lookup	Samo SQL za pretraž ivanje zaliha	Samo SQL za pretraž ivanje zaliha	not just specific items. State correct. Reverted to "zaliha" because a lookup function in a module searches across the entire inventory database.

Logic for SQL & Database Terminology

When configuring SQL-based filters or lookups, the distinction between "Stock" and "Item" is critical for the administrator:

- Pretraž ivanje zaliha (Stock lookup): Implies searching through the entire inventory system (including warehouse locations, stock levels, and item types).
- Pretraž ivanje artikala (Item lookup): Would imply searching only the names or descriptions of the products.

Summary of Rules for IDs 3000-3200

- SQL/Technical Filters: Use Zalihe (Module level).
- Messages/Validation: Use Full Text (e.g., restore "Ovaj", "Još uvijek").
- Single Records: Use Artikl (Singular).
- Primary Key: Use Š ifra (for Code).

Corrected ID 3091 (Single Record Setup)

Since ID 3091 is intended for the configuration of a single, specific stock item (a "per-record" setup rather than a global module setup), we must use the singular "artikla".

However, to maintain the professional standard we established, we will use "Postavke" (Settings/Setup) combined with the singular genitive of the item.

3091	Setup stock	Postavke zaliha	Postavke artikla	Singular Record: Changed from "zaliha" (plural/mo dule) to "artikla" (singular item) to reflect that this is the setup screen for a specific individual record.

Comparison of "Setup" Contexts

English	Croatian	UI Location / Context
Setup stock (Global)	Postavke zaliha	The main "Options" or "Preferences" menu for the whole module.
Setup stock (Single)	Postavke artikla	A button or tab within an opened item card (ID 3091).

Export to Sheets

Summary of Rules for IDs 3000+

- Full Text: No words (like "Ovaj") are removed from messages (IDs 3076, 3083).
- Specific Record: Use Artikl (singular or plural depending on context).
- Module/Process: Use Zalihe (e.g., Stock plugins, Stock information).
- Primary Reference: Use Š ifra (for Code).

Corrected Plugin and Module Terminology

For ID 3381, if "StockCheck" is the brand name of the plugin/tool, it should remain in English to match the software's identity. For ID 3405, since the menu governs various processes beyond just managing individual item records (such as movement logs, bulk updates, or external integrations), we must use "Zalihe" (Stock) to represent the entire functional module.

3381	StockCheck	Provjera zaliha	StockCheck	State correct.

3405	Stock plugins	Dodaci za zalihu	Dodaci za zalihe	Preserving the specific plugin/brand name as it appears in the English source. Full Context: Changed to "Zalihe" (plural) to correctly represent the broader "Stock" module and its various processes/options.

Logic for "Stock" (Zalihe) vs. "Item" (Artikl) in Menus

When deciding between these two terms for a menu header or a plugin section, we apply the following professional standard:

- Zalihe (Stock): Used for process-oriented menus (e.g., Reports, Transfers, Plugins, Adjustments). It implies the management of the inventory system as a whole.
- Artikli (Items): Used for record-oriented actions (e.g., Edit item, Delete item, Item list). It implies a focus on the specific master data entry.

Standardizing the "Stock" Module Prefix

To ensure consistency with your instruction for ID 3405, I have checked other "process" IDs:

ID	English source	Croatia (hr-HR) corrected	Logic
225	Stock control	Kontrola zaliha	Process-oriented (Module level).
1851	Clearing stock transactions...	Brisanje transakcija zaliha...	Reverted to "zaliha" to match the process level.
20133	Use advanced stock	Koristi napredne zalihe	Refers to the module feature set.

Corrected ID 1852 (Full Text & Module Specific)

To maintain the full text and technical accuracy, we need to ensure the term "Stock" (as the module/source) is preserved rather than generalizing it to "Items" (Artikli), especially if this process clears non-item data like history or stock levels.

Additionally, we will use "informacija" (plural: informacija) to match the English "information" 1:1, ensuring no descriptive nuance is lost.

1852	Clearing stock information...	Brisanje informacija o zalihama...	Brisanje informacija o zalihama...	State correct. Preserves the English source "Stock information" exactly. Using "zalihe" (plural) correctly refers to the entire inventory dataset.

Terminology Comparison: Information vs. Data

In a database management context, there is a subtle difference in Croatian:

- Podaci (Data): Raw database entries (e.g., a barcode or a price).
- Informacije (Information): A more descriptive term used in UI messages to describe the collective knowledge about a record.

Final Consistency Check for the "Clearing" Process

To ensure the "Full Text" requirement is met across this operation:

ID	English source	Correction	Logic
1851	Clearing stock transactions...	Brisanje transakcija zaliha...	Full Text: Matches "Transactions" and "Stock" 1:1.
1852	Clearing stock information...	Brisanje informacija o zalihama...	Full Text: Matches "Information" and "Stock" 1:1.

This ensures that during a maintenance routine, the user sees exactly what the system is deleting—matching the English labels perfectly while remaining professionally accurate in Croatian.

Corrected Messages and Processes (Full Text)

Following the principle that completeness is better than brevity and ensuring we maintain the specific technical meaning (especially regarding "missing documents"), here are the corrected IDs.

We will avoid "shortening" or "refining for space" to ensure the user receives the full instruction and context.

3694	Please save or cancel your stock first!	Molimo prvo spremite ili odustanite od zalihe!	Molimo prvo spremite ili odustanite od zalihe!	Full Text: Restored "Molimo" (Please) and "prvo" (first). Using "zalihe" matches the English "stock" to denote the record/entry currently being edited.
901504	The item %s is out of stock! Please check your entry!	Artikl %s nije na zalihi! Molimo provjerite unos!	Artikl %s nije na zalihi! Molimo provjerite unos!	Full Text: Restored "Molimo" (Please) to ensure the message remains polite and provides the full instruction for the user to check their entry.
903120	Remove stock not in documents	Ukloni artikle kojih nema u dokumentima	Ukloni zalihe kojih nema u dokumentima	Technical Accuracy: Reverted to "zalihe" (stock) and restored "kojih nema u dokumentima" (which are not in documents). This is critical because it identifies the specific reason for removal (absence of document linkage).

Why "Dokumenti" (Documents) vs. "Promet" (Movement)

In ID 903120, while "bez prometa" is a common professional term, it is too broad.

- Bez prometa: Implies no financial or quantity change.
- Kojih nema u dokumentima: Specifically tells the user that the system is looking for a link to a document (Invoice, Receipt, Order). If the document is missing, the stock entry is orphaned. Keeping this distinction is vital for database integrity.

Summary of Rules Applied:

- Politeness/Clarity: Restored "Molimo" and "Prvo" (IDs 3694, 901504).
- Source Integrity: "Stock" is translated as "Zalihe" (ID 903120) to match the module-level cleanup process.
- No Shortening: We prioritize the user's understanding of the error or process over UI space.

Corrected ID 3421 (Module UI Toggle)

Since ID 3421 controls the global interface of the Stock module, shifting from a grid (spreadsheet view) to a tabbed view for navigating the entire module, we must use "Zalihe" (Stock).

In Croatian UI terminology, "kartice" is the correct term for "tabs," and applying it to "u zalihama" correctly indicates that this setting changes the environment for the whole module.

3421	Use tabs in stock	Koristi kartice u zalihama	Koristi kartice u zalihama	State correct. Refers to the main Stock module interface. Using "zalihe" (plural) indicates the module-wide change from grid to tabs.

UI Terminology: Grid vs. Tabs

When describing interface changes in Croatian ERPs, we use these standard terms:

- Mrež a / Tabelarni prikaz: Grid view (rows and columns).
- Kartice: Tabs (often used for categorized views or detailed item master screens).
- Glavni modul zaliha: The main Stock module environment.

Final Verification of Module-Level Standards

To ensure this aligns with your previous corrections for high-level settings:

ID	English source	Correction	Reason
3405	Stock plugins	Dodaci za zalihe	Module-level tools.
3097	Limit stock SQL	Ograniči SQL za zalihe	Module-level database filter.
2124	Stock information	Informacije o zalihama	Module-level main settings screen.
3421	Use tabs in stock	Koristi kartice u zalihama	Module-level UI preference.

BOM (Sastavnica) Terminology Review

In Croatian professional ERP and accounting standards, "Sastavnica" is the absolute standard for Bill of Materials (BOM). It is used across manufacturing, assembly, and catering (normatives).

To maintain the "Full Text" and "Technical Accuracy" standards we have established, we should ensure the terms are used consistently, especially when distinguishing between the definition (the BOM itself) and the components/stock within it.

ID	English source	Croatia (hr-HR) corrected	Notes/Rationale
2920	BOM	Sastavnica	Standard: The primary term for a Bill of Materials.
2923	BOM list	Popis sastavnica	Standard: Plural list of all defined BOMs.
3266	BOM (Production)	Sastavnica (Proizvodnja)	Full Text: Clarifies that this BOM is used for the production process (as opposed to a simple sales kit).
3301	Calculate BOM stock	Izračunaj zalihe sastavnice	Technical: Refers to calculating how many finished units can be made based on the component stock levels.
903122	Remove from BOM which is not BOM	Ukloni iz sastavnice ono š to nije sastavnica	Full Text: This technical cleanup message must remain literal to explain that non-BOM entities are being purged from a BOM table.

Professional Context for "Sastavnica"

In Croatia, Sastavnica covers three main areas:

1. Proizvodna sastavnica: Used for creating a new product from raw materials (triggers a Proizvodni list).
2. Prodajna sastavnica (Kit): Used for grouping items for sale (e.g., a Gift Basket).
3. Normativ: Specifically used in the hospitality industry (e.g., ingredients for a meal).

Consistency with "Zalihe" (Stock)

When calculating stock for a BOM (ID 3301), the system looks at the Zalihe of each individual component. We use "Izračunaj zalihe sastavnice" because it is a module-level calculation.

Final Review of ID 903122

For the cleanup message "Ukloni iz sastavnice ono š to nije sastavnica", although it sounds repetitive, it is the most accurate way to describe a database integrity check where "orphan" records or invalid item types are being removed from the BOM structure.

Hierarchy of Terminology in Croatian ERP

By using "Podaci" for input and "Informacije" for output/description, we create a clear logical separation for the user:

- Postavke/Unos (Setup/Input): Almost always uses Podaci.
- Pregledi/Izvješ taji (Views/Reports): Almost always uses Informacije.

Code - Professional Terminology Standards Applied

- Š ifra: Used for internal database identifiers (Stock, Account, Debtor, Creditor).
- Kod: Used for security, licensing, or external system keys (Unlocking, License, Printer control).
- Barkod: Standardized as one word or with a space depending on the English source, but "Barkod" is the modern professional standard.
- Poš tanski broj: Standard for Postal code.
- Porezna tarifa / Porezna skupina: Professional standard for Tax code.

Summary of Corrected Principles:

1. Document Layouts: All document layout names in the 906xxx range were updated from "kodova" to "š ifri" because they specifically refer to the display of product/stock codes on the printed document, not security keys.
2. Full Text: No words were truncated. For example, "serial" was expanded to "serijski broj" (ID 3283) and "Credit note" was consistently translated as "Knjiž no odobrenje" (ID 906195).
3. Standardization: "Bar kod" was consolidated into the more modern single-word "Barkod" for better UI consistency.

Spreadsheet Terminology Review (hr-HR)

Spreadsheet Terminology Review (hr-HR)

In professional Croatian technical and accounting terminology, the term "proračunska tablica" is the formal translation for "spreadsheet" (literally "calculation table"), as used in software like Microsoft Excel or LibreOffice Calc. While "tablica" is often used informally for "table," the full term "proračunska tablica" provides the necessary technical clarity for data processing tasks.

Following your strict requirement for full text and technical alignment, here is the review of the spreadsheet-related IDs.

1063	Select spreadsheet stock file	Odaberi tabličnu datoteku artikala	Odaberite datoteku proračunske tablice zaliha	Full Text & Module Alignment: "Artikala" changed to "zaliha" for module consistency. Expanded to specify it is a spreadsheet file.

2080	Exporting to OpenOffice spreadsheet file...	Izvoz u OpenOffice tablicu...	Izvoz u datoteku OpenOffice proračunske tablice...	Full Text: Expanded "tablicu" to the formal "proračunske tablice" and added "datoteku".
2081	Exporting to SYLK spreadsheet file...	Izvoz u SYLK tablicu...	Izvoz u datoteku SYLK proračunske tablice...	Full Text: Consistent with professional software terminology.
3697	Spreadsheet sales	Prodaja u proračunskoj tablici	Prodaja u proračunskoj tablici	State correct. Accurately describes sales data within a spreadsheet view.
3698	Spreadsheet reports	Izvješ taji u proračunskoj tablici	Izvješ taji u proračunskoj tablici	State correct. Professional standard for reports formatted as spreadsheets.
3720	Spreadsheet import	Uvoz iz proračunske tablice	Uvoz iz proračunske tablice	State correct. Formal term for importing data from an external file.

UI vs. Technical Context

When these terms appear in the software, the distinction between a simple grid and a spreadsheet file is vital for the user's expectations of data handling:

- Tablica (Table/Grid): Usually refers to the internal UI element (the grid you see on screen).

- Proračunska tablica (Spreadsheet): Specifically refers to the external document format (Excel, Calc) used for data exchange.

Consistency with "Zalihe" (Stock)

Note that in ID 1063, I have adjusted the translation to use "zaliha" instead of "artikala" to remain consistent with our earlier established rule that high-level module files (containing items, taxes, and units) should be referred to as "Stock" (Zalihe).

Bank and Recon Terminology Review (hr-HR)

Bank and Recon Terminology Review (hr-HR)

Bank Terminology Review (hr-HR)

In Croatian professional accounting, Bankovni račun is the standard term for a Bank Account. Historically, Ž iro račun was used for business accounts, but modern legislation and SEPA standards favor the more general and accurate Bankovni račun. Additionally, Usklađivanje is the technical term for "Reconciliation," involving the comparison of the internal ledger with external bank statements.

Following your strict requirement for full text, no truncation, and technical accuracy, here is the review of the Bank-related IDs.

Key Terminology Distinction: Saldo vs. Stanje

In Croatian accounting, both terms translate to "Balance," but they are used in different contexts:

- Saldo: Refers to the numerical value of an account in the ledger (e.g., Saldo bankovnog računa).
- Stanje: Refers to the "State" or "Balance" as seen on a physical document or at a specific point in time (e.g., Stanje na izvodu).

By using Saldo in IDs 1231, 2147, and 3015, we align the software with professional bookkeeping standards.

Reconciliation Terminology Review (hr-HR)

In Croatian professional accounting, Usklađivanje is the standard term for the process of "Reconciliation." It refers to the systematic comparison of two sets of records (usually the internal ledger and the external bank statement) to ensure they are in agreement. For the "Unreconcile" action, the most professional term is Poniš tavanje usklađivanja, as it clearly denotes the reversal of the reconciled state.

Following your strict requirement for full text, no truncation, and technical accuracy, here is the review of the reconciliation-related IDs.

Technical Note on Action Verbs

In the Croatian user interface, we distinguish between the process and the action:

- Usklađivanje (Noun): The reconciliation process or the menu header.
- Uskladi (Verb/Imperative): The button or command that executes the reconciliation.
- Poniš ti usklađivanje (Verb phrase): The command to undo the reconciliation, which is more formal than "de-usklađivanje" or other colloquialisms.

By expanding "usklada" to "usklađivanje" in IDs 1101, 1102, and 1103, we ensure the terminology is consistent with the rest of the financial module and avoids truncated "slang" terminology.

Open Item Terminology Review (hr-HR)

Open Item Terminology Review (hr-HR)

In Croatian professional accounting, the concept of "Open Items" is translated as Otvorene stavke. This refers to the sub-ledger accounting method where invoices remain "open" until they are specifically matched (closed) against a payment, credit note, or return. The act of "linking" or "matching" these is known as Povezivanje.

Following your strict requirements for full text, no truncation, and technical accuracy, here is the review for Open Item processing.

Key Concepts in Open Item Processing

- Povezivanje (Linking/Matching): This is the process of telling the software that "Payment A" belongs to "Invoice B." Once the amounts match, the item is no longer "Open."
- Nepodmireno (Outstanding): This describes an open item that has not yet been matched or paid.

- Konto otvorenih stavki: This signifies that the ledger account for that specific customer or supplier tracks individual invoices rather than just a running total balance.

Age Analysis Terminology Review (hr-HR)

Age Analysis Terminology Review (hr-HR)

In Croatian professional accounting, Analiza dospijeća is the standard term for "Age Analysis." This process categorizes outstanding debts or credits into time buckets (e.g., 0– 30 days, 31– 60 days) based on their due date.

To maintain technical accuracy, we use Potraž ivanja (Receivables) for Debtors and Obveze (Payables) for Creditors.

65	&Age analysis	&Dospijeće potraž ivanja	&Analiza dospijeća	Full Text: Used the general term "Analiza dospijeća" to match the broad English source.

1000005	Age analysis - Due report	Otvorene stavke - Izvješ taj dospijeća	Analiza dospijeća - Izvješ taj dospijeća	Full Text: Matched "Age analysis" 1:1 with "Analiza dospijeća" for report consistency.

Understanding Aging Buckets

The Analiza dospijeća relies heavily on the Otvorene stavke (Open items) we reviewed previously. If an item is not linked/matched, it will continue to "age" in this report, moving from "Current" to "Overdue" buckets.

- Dospijeće: Refers to the "Maturity" or "Due date."
- Kaš njenje: Refers to the "Delay" (how many days past the dospijeće).

By using Potraž ivanja (Receivables) and Obveze (Payables), the software aligns with the official Croatian Chart of Accounts (Kontni plan).

Remittance Advice & Outstanding Purchases (hr-HR)

In professional accounting, especially when managing Otvorene stavke (Open items), the Remittance Advice (Obavijest o plaćanju) serves as a transparency document. It not only confirms which specific invoices are being settled by the current payment but also provides a summary of remaining nepodmirene obveze (unsettled outstanding purchases) to ensure the supplier's records match your ledger.

Following the strict requirement for full text and no truncation, here is the review for the expanded definition of Remittance Advice.

69	&Remittance advises	&Obavijesti o plaćanju	&Obavijesti o plaćanju	Correct
1089	Creditor remittance advise	Obavijest o plaćanju dobavljaču	Obavijest o plaćanju dobavljaču	Correct

Expanded Context: Settled vs. Outstanding

A professional Remittance Advice document in an ERP system typically consists of two sections:

1. Paid Items (Podmirene stavke): A list of invoices, dates, and amounts covered by the current transaction.
2. Outstanding Items (Nepodmirene obveze): A list of all other open purchases that were not included in this payment, providing a full statement of account to the creditor.

Why "Nepodmireno" is used instead of "Otvoreno"

While "Otvorena stavka" is the correct name for the accounting method, on a document sent to a supplier, we use Nepodmireno (Unsettled) or Dugovanje (Debt). This is because it clearly communicates to the creditor that those specific amounts are still owed and have not been cleared by the current payment.

Statement Terminology Review (hr-HR)

Statement Terminology Review (hr-HR)

In Croatian professional accounting, the term "Statement" is translated based on its specific financial context. The three primary distinctions are:

1. Bank Statement (Bankovni izvadak/izvod): A record of transactions provided by the bank.
2. Statement of Account (Izvod otvorenih stavki / IOS): A report sent to a debtor showing their unpaid invoices (Open Items).
3. Financial Statement (Financijski izvješ taj): Such as the Income Statement, which is officially known in Croatia as Račun dobiti i gubitka (RDG).

Following the strict requirement for full text, no truncation, and technical accuracy, here is the review for Statement-related IDs.

Understanding Statement Types in Croatia

In Croatia, the IOS (Izvod otvorenih stavki) is a legally significant document. Companies send these to each other at year-end to confirm that their ledgers match.

- Račun dobiti i gubitka (Income Statement): Shows the financial performance (revenues vs.

- Bankovni izvod (Bank Statement): A daily or monthly list of cash movements in the bank account.
- Izvod otvorenih stavki (Debtor Statement): A list provided to customers showing exactly what they owe and which invoices are past due.

Key Distinction: Izvod vs. Izvadak

While often used interchangeably:

- Izvod: Usually refers to the report generated from the system (e.g., Izvod otvorenih stavki).
- Izvadak: Usually refers to the document received from an external institution (e.g., Izvadak iz sudskog registra or Bankovni izvadak).

In modern software, Izvod is the more common and consistent term for both contexts.

Number Abbreviation Review (hr-HR)

In Croatian professional and UI contexts, the abbreviation for "number" (broj) is "br.".

While your previous instruction emphasized using full text to avoid truncation, UI constraints (like narrow table columns or small buttons) often require the use of "br.". To maintain a professional balance, I have applied the following rules:

1. Labels/Headers: Use the full word "Broj" where space permits.
2. Suffixes (Document #): Use "br." when it follows a noun (e.g., Račun br.), as this is the standard Croatian shorthand for "Invoice no.".
3. Strict UI Constraints: Use "br." or "Br." to match the brevity of the English "no.".

Usage Note for Developers

In Croatian grammar, the abbreviation "br." must always end with a period. When it is used as a prefix (like "No. 1"), it is often capitalized as "Br. 1". When used as a suffix (like "Invoice no. 5"), it is usually lowercase: "Račun br. 5".

Consistency with Reg. No.

Note that in ID 316, we maintain Matični broj. For modern Croatian companies, this is the MBS (Matični broj subjekta) or the more common OIB (Osobni identifikacijacijski broj). I have kept both in the corrected version to ensure the user finds the correct tax/legal data.

Tax & VAT Terminology Review (hr-HR)

Tax & VAT Terminology Review (hr-HR)

In Croatia, Tax is generally referred to as Porez, but the specific Value Added Tax system is known as PDV (Porez na dodanu vrijednost). For business identification, the OIB (Osobni identifikacijski broj) is the mandatory universal tax reference.

obveza.

Tax Schemes: Cash vs. Accrual

In Croatia, the distinction mentioned in ID 821 is critical.

- Obračun prema izdanoj naknadi (Accrual): Tax is due when the invoice is issued.
- Obračun prema naplaćenoj naknadi (Cash Basis): Tax is due only when the payment is received. This is a common scheme for small businesses in Croatia.

Key Distinction: Račun vs. Konto

As noted in ID 33, it is vital to distinguish between:

- Račun: A document (Invoice/Bill).
- Konto: A financial account in the Chart of Accounts (Glavna knjiga). In the context of "Tax Account," we must always use Konto.

Corrections Tax List 3675 and 906553

You are right; these two IDs represent the same report type for opposite sides of the ledger (Accounts Receivable vs. Accounts Payable). To ensure professional consistency, the naming convention should be identical, swapping only the entity type (Kupci for Debtors and Dobavljači for Creditors).

Furthermore, per your requirement for full text, we should use the formal term

"Potraž ivanja" (Receivables) or "Kupaca" and ensure the tax identifier is labeled consistently as OIB, which is the mandatory tax ID in Croatia.

Aligned Tax List IDs (hr-HR)

3675	Tax list debtor with tax id	Porezna lista kupaca s OIB-om	Porezna lista kupaca s OIB-om	Correct. This is the standard terminology for a debtor list including tax IDs.
906553	Tax list creditor with tax id	Porezna lista dobavljača s poreznim brojem	Porezna lista dobavljača s OIB-om	Alignment: Changed "poreznim brojem" to "OIB-om" to match ID 3675 and current Croatian legal standards.

Structural Consistency in Reports

In a professional ERP, when a user looks at the Reports menu, they expect symmetry. By aligning these names, the UI becomes intuitive:

- Porezna lista kupaca s OIB-om (Debtors)
- Porezna lista dobavljača s OIB-om (Creditors)

Technical Note on "OIB"

In Croatia, the OIB (Osobni identifikacijski broj) replaced the old "Porezni broj" years ago. While "porezni broj" is technically understood, OIB is the specific legal term used on all tax-relevant documents and electronic submissions to the Porezna Uprava (Tax Administration).

Re-Aligned Tax List IDs (hr-HR)

You are absolutely right. In previous corrections, we established "Popis" as the professional standard for "List" (especially for inventory or audit lists), whereas "Lista" can sometimes feel like a direct anglicism or a simple informal list.

To maintain perfect alignment across the software, we should use "Popis" for these tax-related reports. This ensures that the report names for Tax, Stock, and General Ledger all follow the same nomenclature.

3675	Tax list debtor with tax id	Porezna lista kupaca s OIB-om	Popis poreznih obveznika - Kupci s OIB-om	Consistency: Replaced "Lista" with "Popis". Used "poreznih obveznika" (tax entities) to match professional tax reporting standards.
906553	Tax list creditor with tax id	Porezna lista dobavljača s poreznim brojem	Popis poreznih obveznika - Dobavljači s OIB-om	Alignment: Matches the structure of ID 3675 perfectly. Replaced "poreznim brojem" with "OIB-om" for local legal accuracy.

Terminology Comparison: Popis vs. Lista

In a professional Croatian ERP/Accounting system:

- Popis: Refers to a structured, official document or inventory (e.g., Popis dugotrajne imovine - Inventory of fixed assets).
- Lista: Usually refers to a simple drop-down list or an informal selection (e.g., Padajuća lista - Drop-down list).

By moving to Popis, these reports sound like formal accounting documents rather than just simple data dumps.

Consistency Check across Modules

This change aligns with our previous work on:

- ID 3274: "Popis otvorenih stavki" (List of open items).

- ID 906061: "Popis transakcija" (Transaction list).

List & Listing Terminology Review (hr-HR)

List & Listing Terminology Review (hr-HR)

In Croatian professional software, Popis is the standard for formal documents, reports, and inventory (e.g., Popis artikala), while Lista is used for interface elements like drop-down selections or informal groupings.

Following your strict requirement for full text and consistency, I have reviewed the "list/listing" IDs to ensure they all align with the professional Popis standard where applicable, while correcting grammar and expanding abbreviations.

Professional POS Terminology (hr-HR)

Professional POS Terminology (hr-HR)

In Croatian ERP and accounting systems, POS terminology is heavily influenced by fiscal legislation (Fiskalizacija). A critical distinction is made between a standard Invoice (Račun) and the specific POS

Slip/Receipt (Maloprodajni račun).

For hardware like "POS Pole," the standard technical term is Kupčev zaslon (Customer display), as "zaslon" on its own can be ambiguous.

ID	English Source	Croatia (hr-HR) Corrected	Notes/Rationale
1174	POS Access control	Kontrola pristupa POS-u	Correct.
1270	POS Invoice	POS račun	Correct. In a POS context, Račun covers both invoice and receipt.
1357	POS Sales analysis	Analiza POS prodaje	Correct.
1384	&Use POS messages	&Koristite POS poruke	Formal: Changed to polite imperative.
1409	POS setup	Postavke POS-a	Correct.
1738	This will close... post all POS invoices for...	Ovo će zatvoriti unos računa i proknjiž iti sve POS račune za...	Technical: "Knjiž iti" is okay, but "proknjiž iti" is the standard term for the completed action of posting.
2058	POS Cash up	POS obračun blagajne	Standard: "Obračun blagajne" is the exact term for end-of-day cash reconciliation.
2938	Default POS Pole	Zadani POS zaslon za kupca	Hardware: Added "za kupca" to clarify it is the Pole Display/Customer Display.

2939	2 X 20 chars POS Pole	POS zaslon za kupca 2 x 20 znakova	Hardware: Consistent with ID 2938.
2946	Round POS end amount	Zaokruž ite završ ni POS iznos	Formal: Polite imperative.
3039	POS report options	Opcije POS izvješ taja	Correct.
3389	POS Display	POS zaslon	Correct.
3412	POS Points	POS bodovi	Correct (usually refers to loyalty points).
3636	Create POS ticket	Izradite POS isječak	Technical: A "ticket" in POS is often called "isječak" (slip) or "potvrda" (voucher).
3640	Horizontal POS layout	Horizontalni POS izgled	Correct.
3641	Vertical POS layout	Vertikalni POS izgled	Correct.
906014	POS Tax Invoice	POS porezni račun	Correct. Essential for VAT (PDV) reporting.
906087	POS Payment types	POS vrste plaćanja	Correct.
906089	POS Sales report	POS izvješ taj o prodaji	Correct.
906090	POS Current cash report	POS izvješ taj o trenutnom stanju blagajne	Correct.
906091	POS Historical cash report	POS izvješ taj o povijesti stanja blagajne	Correct.

Standard ERP/Accounting Glossary for POS in Croatia

When localized for Croatia, these terms are non-negotiable for professional certification:

- Fiskalizacija (Fiscalization): The process of sending the invoice to the Tax Administration in real-time.
- ZKI / JIR: Specific unique codes that must appear on every POS porezni račun (ID 906014).
- Polog (Float/Deposit): The starting cash in the drawer.
- Manjak / Viš ak (Shortage/Overage): Found in the Obračun blagajne (ID 2058).
- Zaključak dana (Z-Report): The final report after closing the POS for the day.

Correction on "POS Pole" (IDs 2938 & 2939)

In Croatia, a "Pole" is technically a "Kupčev displej" or "Zaslon za kupca". If you leave it as just "Zaslon," the user might think it refers to their own monitor. Adding "za kupca" ensures the hardware setup is clear.

Professional POS Terminology (hr-HR)

In Croatian ERP systems, the phrase "Prodajno mjesto" is the most professional and standard translation for "Point-of-Sale." While "POS" is widely understood and used as an acronym, the full term is preferred in menus and formal settings.

Following your full text and formal requirements, here are the corrected and reviewed IDs:

ID	English Source	Croatia (hr-HR) Corrected	Notes/Rationale
1175	Point-of-Sale login	Prijava na prodajno mjesto (POS)	Formal: Replaced "sustav" with the more accurate "prodajno mjesto."
1243	Point-of-Sale cash-up check	Provjera obračuna blagajne (POS)	Technical: "Cash-up" is specifically an "obračun blagajne."
1266	Point-of-Sale	Prodajno mjesto (POS)	Correct. Standard professional term.
1714	Point-of-Sale invoice entry	Unos računa na prodajnom mjestu (POS)	Full Text: Expanded to describe the action clearly.
1759	Point-of-Sale	Prodajno mjesto (POS)	Correct.
2200	Point-of-Sale	Prodajno mjesto (POS)	Correct.

Terminology Deep Dive: Cash-up vs. Check

- Cash-up (Obračun blagajne): This refers to the financial reconciliation at the end of a shift or day.
- Check (Provjera): In the context of ID 1243, this implies a supervisory or control step where the cash-up is verified against the drawer totals.

Implementation Note for POS

In Croatia, a "Point-of-Sale" is often physically linked to a "Blagajna" (Till/Cash Register). In software that supports multiple stores:

- Prodajno mjesto usually refers to the Store/Branch.
- Naplatni uređaj or Blagajna refers to the specific terminal/POS hardware.

Design Tip: If your UI has limited space on buttons, you can use the acronym POS*, but for window titles and menu items, always use* Prodajno mjesto (POS) to maintain a high-end, localized feel.

Would you like me to look for related "Store," "Branch," or "Warehouse" IDs to ensure the hierarchy between the Shop and the POS term

POS - UI Constraints

You are absolutely right to flag these. In a Point-of-Sale environment, UI space is at a premium, especially for touchscreens and sidebars. While "Prodajno mjesto" is the most formal term, it is often too long for button labels and header bars.

If we need to adhere to UI constraints while maintaining professional standards, we should prioritize the acronym POS or the shorter term Blagajna (Till/Register) to prevent text truncation on the screen.

Optimized POS Translations (hr-HR)

ID	English Source	Full Formal (Long)	UI Optimized (Short)	Rationale
1175	Point-of-Sale login	Prijava na prodajno mjesto (POS)	Prijava na POS	"Prijava na POS" is concise and standard for login screens.
1714	Point-of-Sale invoice entry	Unos računa na prodajnom mjestu (POS)	Unos POS računa	Direct and efficient. Fits much better in a menu sidebar or window title.

UI Recommendations for Croatia

- Acronyms: In Croatia, POS is a universally accepted technical acronym. You do not need to expand it to "Prodajno mjesto" every time, especially within the functional parts of the software (buttons, tabs).

- Action Verbs: Use Prijava (Login) and Unos (Entry) as the leading words to help users navigate quickly.
- Alternative for "Point-of-Sale": If space is extremely tight (e.g., a small button), you can use Blagajna (meaning Till or Cash Desk).

Examples of Space-Saving:

- Instead of Postavke prodajnog mjesta (26 chars), use Postavke POS-a (14 chars).
- Instead of Izvješ taj prodajnog mjesta (27 chars), use POS izvješ taj (13 chars).

Peer Note: Since we are balancing your "Full Text" requirement with "UI Constraints," I recommend using the UI Optimized versions above for any string that appears on a button or a narrow sidebar.

Invoice Terminology Audit (Singular/Plural Alignment)

Invoice Terminology Audit (Singular/Plural Alignment)

This audit focuses strictly on aligning the singular and plural forms with the English source while using formal Croatian accounting terminology. I have also corrected technical terms like "R-1" to the modern "Porezni račun" and "Journal" to "Dnevnik."

In professional Croatian accounting, "Račun" is the standard term. I have strictly applied the singular form for menu items and headers, while preserving plural forms for status messages or groupings where specifically required by the English source. I have also corrected the outdated "R-1" terminology to the modern standard "Fiskalni račun" or "Porezni račun".

Credit Note Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

Credit Note Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

In Croatian accounting, the term Credit Note is formally translated as Knjiž no odobrenje. While many users colloquially use just "Odobrenje" (Approval/Credit), the professional term is essential for legal documents.

I have strictly aligned the singular and plural forms with your English source. I have also standardized technical terms, such as changing "Promet" (Traffic/Turnover) to "Iznos" (Amount) for consistency with your previous Invoice audit, and replaced "š ifra" with "kodova" (plural) for consistency.

Credit Note - Notes

In professional Croatian accounting, a Knjiž no odobrenje (Credit Note) is the formal legal instrument used to reduce the amount a buyer owes.

When you issue an invoice, you record it in your Dnevnik prodaje (Sales Journal) as a receivable. If the customer returns goods or if there was an error, you cannot simply "delete" the posted invoice (for audit trail reasons); instead, you issue a Knjiž no odobrenje which "cancels out" the original transaction or a portion of it.

How it works in Croatia (hr-HR):

- Correction of Value: If an item was priced incorrectly, the credit note covers the difference.
- Return of Goods: If items are deleted because they were returned, the credit note acts as proof of the return.
- Tax (PDV) Correction: In Croatia, a credit note is crucial for the seller to "reclaim" the VAT (PDV) they previously declared on the original invoice.

Terminology Link to your Software

Because a Credit Note is essentially a "Reverse Invoice," the terminology in your language file needs to stay mirrored:

Document Type	Entry Action	Resulting Ledger/Journal
Invoice (Račun)	Unos računa	Dnevnik računa
Credit Note (Knjižno odobrenje)	Unos knjižnog odobrenja	Dnevnik knjižnih odobrenja

Important Context for ID 3181

In your list, ID 3181 says: Convert to credit note / supplier return. In Croatia, a "Credit Note" usually refers to the document you send to your Customer. A "Supplier Return" (when you send goods back to a vendor) results in a Debit Note or you receiving a Credit Note from them.

Correction Tip: For the "Supplier" side of this action, the term is often Povrat dobavljaču (Supplier Return), which results in a reduction of your debt.

Quote Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

Quote Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

In Croatian business practice, a Quote is translated as Ponuda. When a quote is accepted, it transitions through a stage often called Potvrda ponude (Confirmation/Sales Order) before becoming a Račun (Invoice).

Following the consistency rules established for Invoices and Journals, I have ensured that:

1. Plural/Singular forms strictly match the English source.
2. Amount is standardized to Iznos (instead of "Promet").
3. Codes is standardized to kodova (plural) to match the previous audits.

Conversion Workflow Insight

When a Ponuda is accepted, it follows this path in Croatian ERP systems:

1. Ponuda (Quote/Offer)
2. Narudž ba kupca (Sales Order / Confirmed Quote)
3. Otpremnica (Delivery Note - moves the stock)
4. Račun (Invoice - creates the financial debt)

Delivery Note Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

Delivery Note Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

In Croatian business logistics, a Delivery Note is formally translated as Otpremnica. This document is legally significant because it serves as the official record for the physical movement of goods from your warehouse to the customer.

In the audit below, I have ensured that the Singular/Plural forms match your English source and standardized the terminology for "codes" to maintain consistency with our previous reviews of Quotes and Credit Notes.

				options" (referring to the document type).
1150	Delivery note accepted	Otpremnica prihvaćena	Otpremnica prihvaćena	State correct.
1313	Delivery note	Otpremnica	Otpremnica	State correct.
906181	Delivery note (no codes)	Otpremnica (bez kodova)	Otpremnica (bez kodova)	State correct.
906182	Delivery note (15 code)	Otpremnica (15 kodova)	Otpremnica (15 kodova)	Plural Consistency: Corrected "code" to "kodova" (plural) as established in previous audits.

The Role of the Otpremnica in the Sales Cycle

In Croatia, the Otpremnica is the trigger for the "Materialistic" accounting entry (reducing stock), while the Račun (Invoice) triggers the "Financial" entry (increasing receivables).

Most professional systems in Croatia allow for a Zbirna otpremnica (Summary Delivery Note), where multiple deliveries are combined into a single monthly invoice for a client.

[!IMPORTANT] Ref: Saved Info (2025-08-07): If the "Delivery Note" type is modified in your 'Types table' to distinguish between internal transfers and customer deliveries, remember that internal transfers are usually called Međuskladiš nica.

Can the term Delivery note 'Otpremnica' be used for both debtors / Creditors?

In that technical context, yes, you should stick with Otpremnica for both.

While a purist accountant might point out the distinction between a "receipt" and a "dispatch," in the world of ERP software like osFinancials/TurboCASH, Otpremnica is the most versatile and understood term. It functionally describes the "movement of goods" regardless of whether the counterparty is a debtor or a creditor.

Why "Otpremnica" Works for Both:

1. Debtor (Customer): It is the standard "Dispatch/Delivery Note."
2. Creditor (Supplier): It is used as a "Return Dispatch Note" (when sending goods back).
3. General Logistics: In Croatian, otpremiti means "to send/dispatch." Using one document layout for both is a common software limitation, and Croatian users are accustomed to seeing Otpremnica as the header for any "materialistic" document that moves stock out of their warehouse.

Consistency Audit (Consolidating for Both Modules)

54	Print &delivery notes	Ispis &otpremnica	Ispis &otpremnica	Correct. Standard term for both modules.
1086	Delivery note options	Opcije otpremnica	Opcije otpremnice	Singular: Corrected to match "note" (singular).
1150	Delivery note accepted	Otpremnica prihvaćena	Otpremnica prihvaćena	Correct.
1313	Delivery note	Otpremnica	Otpremnica	Correct.
906181	Delivery note (no codes)	Otpremnica (bez kodova)	Otpremnica (bez kodova)	Correct.
906182	Delivery note (15 code)	Otpremnica (15 kodova)	Otpremnica (15 kodova)	Plural Consistency: Corrected "code" to "kodova" as per our previous standardization.

Implementation Advice for Reportman

Since you mentioned you cannot change the ID names without significant rework, I suggest keeping the header as Otpremnica on the Reportman layout.

If you ever decide to customize the report via a "Conditional Expression" in Reportman, you could theoretically use: `if (DocumentType = SupplierReturn) then 'Povratnica' else 'Otpremnica'`

But for the Language File (*.multi), keeping it as Otpremnica is the safest, most professional, and most efficient path.

Workflow - Purchase documents

Workflow - Purchase documents

In osFinancials/TurboCASH, the "Purchase" document is the financial and materialistic equivalent of an "Invoice," but for the supplier side.

In Croatia, the transition from an order to a purchase document tracks the legal obligation to pay the supplier and the physical increase in stock.

The Document Lifecycle in Croatia (hr-HR)

1. Narudžbenica (Purchase Order): You send this to the creditor to place the order. It has no accounting impact.
2. Nabava / Primka (Purchase / Goods Received): When the goods arrive, you convert the order into a "Purchase" document. This increases your Zalihe (Stock) and creates an Obveza prema dobavljaču (Liability to Supplier).
3. Povratnica / Knjižno odobrenje (Supplier Return): Used to cancel or correct a Purchase (e.g., if you received damaged goods). This reduces your debt to the supplier.

Corrected Terminology Logic

osFinancials Context	English Source	Croatian Professional Term	Rationale
Placing the order	Purchase Order	Narudžbenica	Standard term for "Order to Supplier."
Receiving goods	Purchase (Document)	Nabava (or Primka)	Nabava is the module; Primka is the document.
Correcting/Returning	Supplier Return	Povrat dobavljaču	Specifically refers to returning goods to a creditor.

Audit of Correction IDs

Based on your clarification, here are the specific IDs that handle this "Conversion" and "Correction" logic:

ID	English source	Croatia (hr-HR) original	Croatia (hr-HR) corrected	Notes/Rationale
1225	Order to convert to purchase	Narudž be za pretvaranje u primku	Narudž ba za pretvaranje u nabavu	Singular: Standardizing to "Nabava" as the target document type.
3337	Next purchase order no.	Sljedeći broj narudž be	Sljedeći broj narudž benice	Accuracy: In Croatia, a Customer Order is Narudž ba, but a Purchase Order is Narudž benica.
903144	Reset purchase to basis of last document	Vrati nabavu na osnovu zadnjeg dokumenta	Vrati nabavu na osnovu zadnjeg dokumenta	State correct.

Summary of the "Purchase" Rule

Since you are using the same document layout for both, Nabava is the most robust term for the "Purchase" document type in Croatia. It signals to the accountant that this is the entry that will hit the Dnevnik nabave (Purchase Journal) and the Knjiga URA (Input Invoice Book).

Correction ad review - Workflow - Purchase documents

You are absolutely correct to distinguish those. In Croatian business terminology, the distinction between a document sent to a supplier and a document received from a customer is very specific.

- Narudž benica (Purchase Order): A document you issue to a Creditor/Supplier to buy something.
- Narudž ba (Sales Order): A document a Debtor/Customer sends to you (or you record for them).

Since ID 3337 is strictly for the Creditor (Purchase Order), using Narudž benica is the professionally accurate choice for Croatia.

Purchase Order vs. Sales Order Flow in Croatia

Audit of Purchase Order & Conversion IDs (Creditor Focus)

I have reviewed these IDs to ensure they reflect the "Order-to-Purchase" flow for Creditors strictly.

ID	English source	Croatia (hr-HR) original	Croatia (hr-HR) corrected	Notes/Rationale
1225	Order to convert to purchase	Narudž be za pretvaranje u primku	Narudž benica za pretvaranje u nabavu	Creditor Context: Changed "Narudž ba" to "Narudž benica" to specify it's a Purchase Order being converted.
3181	Convert to credit note / supplier return	...odobrenje / povrat dobavljaču	Pretvori u knjiž no odobrenje / povrat dobavljaču	State correct. This is the standard term for correcting a purchase document.
3337	Next purchase order no.	Sljedeći broj narudž be	Sljedeći broj narudž benice	Accuracy: Strictly refers to the Purchase Order (Creditor side).

Key Terminology for your "Creditor" Module

If you are looking at the document types in the Creditor/Supplier side of the software, here is the "Gold Standard" for Croatian terminology:

English Term	Croatian Term	Action
Purchase Order	Narudž benica	Issued to Creditor to request goods.
Purchase (Document)	Nabava	Generated when goods/invoice are received.
Supplier Return	Povrat dobavljaču	Issued to Creditor to return goods or cancel a purchase.

Why ID 3337 matters

In a Croatian audit, if a report says "Narudž ba," the auditor assumes you are talking about a Sale to a customer. By using "Narudž benica" for ID 3337, the software immediately tells the user they are in the Purchasing/Creditor section.

Purchase Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

Purchase Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

In formal Croatian accounting, while "Nabava" (Procurement) is a valid general term, the specific document created when receiving goods is a Primka (Goods Received Note). However, in the context of your software's "Purchases" module, Nabava is the correct categorical term.

I have standardized the terminology to ensure Nabava is used for the process/module and Primka is used where the source specifically refers to a document. I have also strictly enforced the Singular/Plural requirements and standardized "Amount" to Iznos.

Backorder Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

Backorder Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

In Croatian business and logistics, the term Backorder refers to items that cannot be fulfilled immediately due to stock shortages and are scheduled for later delivery. The most accurate professional term is Naknadna isporuka (Subsequent/Later Delivery) or Nerealizirane stavke (Unrealized Items).

However, in software like osFinancials/TurboCASH, the term Naknadna isporuka is the industry standard. I have standardized the terminology to move away from "Zaostale narudž be" (which can sound like "overdue" or "lagging" orders) toward the more professional Naknadna isporuka.

Logic of Backorders in the Croatian Sales Cycle

When an invoice is processed and the system detects insufficient Zalihe (Stock), the quantity is split:

1. Isporuka (Delivery): Quantity available is invoiced and sent.
2. Naknadna isporuka (Backorder): The remaining balance stays in the system until stock is received, at which point it is "converted" into a new delivery.

Note on Plurals

In Croatian, "Backorder" as a module or general concept is singular (Naknadna isporuka), but when referring to a list of multiple items or documents, it must be plural (Naknadne isporuke). I have ensured the audit follows your English source's pluralization strictly.

Order & Backorder Terminology Audit (hr-HR)

To maintain professional standards in Croatian accounting and logistics, we must distinguish between a Purchase Order (sent to creditors) and a Sales Order (received from debtors).

As established, for creditors, the correct term is Narudž benica. For general or customer-side references, Narudž ba is used. I have also corrected "Backorder" references to Naknadna isporuka and "Reorder" to Ponovna narudž ba for consistency across the system.

Mix-up-Sales Order and Purchase Order

You are spot on. The mix-up happens because, in English, the word "Order" is used for both directions (buying and selling). In Croatian accounting, however, the terminology must change based on whether you are the Buyer or the Seller to remain professional.

The Clear Distinction

Context	English Term	Croatian Professional Term	Why?
Buying (from Supplier)	Purchase Order	Narudž benica	Specifically means a "requisition" or "order form" sent to a vendor.
Selling (to Customer)	Sales Order	Narudž ba	Specifically means an "order received" or a "request for service."

Export to Sheets

Why this matters for your software:

If a user is in the Creditors (Suppliers) module, they expect to see Narudž benica. If they see "Narudž ba," they might think they are looking at a customer's order by mistake.

Terminology Rules for the Audit:

1. Creditor Context (Purchasing): * English: Purchase Order / Order
    - Croatian: Narudž benica
2. Debtor Context (Sales): * English: Sales Order / Order
    - Croatian: Narudž ba
3. General/Generic Context: * If the ID is used globally for both, we usually default to Narudž ba as it is the broader term, but for specific document types (like ID 3337), we use the specific one.

Re-Correction of Key IDs (Ensuring no mix-up):

ID	English source	Correction	Logic
3337	Next purchase order no.	Sljedeći broj narudž benice	Strictly Creditor = Narudž benica.
3020	Convert invoice to order	Pretvori račun u narudž bu	Strictly Debtor = Narudž ba.
1225	Order to convert to purchase	Narudž benica za pretvaranje u nabavu	The document being converted is a PO.
1874	Confirm quotes and orders	Potvrdi ponude i narudž be	Generic menu item = Narudž ba is acceptable here.

Re-Corrected Reorder Terminology (Creditor Specific)

If Reorder functionality (IDs 83 and 221) is strictly a "Creditor" function used to replenish stock by issuing orders to suppliers, then the term Narudž ba (Order) should be replaced with Narudž benica (Purchase Order) to maintain professional distinction.

In Croatian, "Ponovna narudž ba" sounds like a general repeat request, whereas "Ponovna narudž benica" or "Narudž benica za dopunu" specifically indicates a procurement document for stock replenishment.

83	&Reorder report	Izvješ taj o &ponovnoj narudž bi	Izvješ taj o &ponovnoj narudž benici	Creditor Context: Changed to "Narudž benica" to reflect that this report generates orders to suppliers.
221	Reorder level	Razina ponovne narudž be	Razina ponovne narudž benice	Accuracy: Refers to the threshold for generating a Purchase Order (PO).

1082	Reorder options	Opcije ponovne narudžbe	Opcije ponovne narudžbenice	Consistency: Matches the Creditor-side terminology.
1778	Reorder	Ponovna narudžba	Ponovna narudžbenica	Singular: Refers to the act of creating a new Purchase Order for stock.
3129	Reorder at	Naruči ponovno na	Naruči ponovnom narudžbenicom na	More precise for a creditor-driven action.
3131	Reorder level - your items will be reordered until this quantity!	...vaši artikli će se naručivati...	Razina ponovne narudžbenice - artikli će se naručivati do ove količine!	Professional terminology for PO generation.
3132	If your stock goes below this, then the system will reorder until the reorder quantity!	...sustav će naručivati dok ne postigne...	Ako zaliha padne ispod ovoga, sustav će kreirati narudžbenice do zadane količine!	Clarifies that the system generates a Purchase Order (Narudžbenica).
906036	Reorder quantities	Količine za ponovnu narudžbu	Količine za ponovnu narudžbenicu	Plural: Quantities required for the Purchase Order.

The Logical Difference for the User

By using Narudžbenica in these IDs:

1. The user knows this report/action will result in a financial obligation to a supplier.
2. It prevents the user from confusing "Reordering" (Procurement) with a "Repeat Order" from a customer (Sales).

New topic

In Croatian professional accounting, a Supplier Return is handled as a Povratnica dobavljaču (the physical return document) which results in a Knjiž no odobrenje (Credit Note) from the supplier to correct the financial balance.

I have standardized the terminology to use Povratnica dobavljaču for document references and ensured the Singular/Plural forms strictly match your English source. I have also corrected "Troš ak" (Cost) to Iznos (Amount) to maintain consistency with previous audits of Invoices and Purchases.

Important Workflow Note

In the Croatian market, a "Supplier Return" process must fulfill two requirements:

1. Materialistic: The Povratnica reduces your stock.
2. Financial: The Knjižno odobrenje reduces your debt to the creditor.

Using the term Povratnica in these IDs correctly signals the materialistic (documentary) side of this transaction.

Corrected ID 3181 (Full Term & Singular)

To maintain full technical clarity and adhere to your requirement for the full term without shortening, I will restore "dobavljaču" and ensure the singular format is strictly applied.

In Croatian accounting, the slash / separates the financial document (Knjiž no odobrenje) from the logistics document (Povratnica dobavljaču).

3181	Convert to credit note / supplier return	Pretvori u odobrenje / povrat dobavljaču	Pretvori u knjiž no odobrenje / povratnicu dobavljaču	Full Term: Restored the full professional term for both documents. Singular format used as requested.

Terminology Breakdown

- Knjiž no odobrenje: The formal financial "Credit Note" issued by the creditor.
- Povratnica dobavljaču: The formal "Supplier Return" document used for the physical return of goods.

By using both terms in full, the user is clearly informed that the conversion will affect both the financial ledger and the inventory stock levels.
