Estonian Language: Countries and ISO Codes

Estonian Language: Countries and ISO Codes

The Estonian language and its associated accounting standards are primarily connected to one country, but it also holds official status in a larger economic union.<sup>1</sup>

The Estonian language is mainly used in Estonia.<sup>2</sup> It is also an official language of the European Union.<sup>3</sup>

Language / Country	Official Status	ISO 639-1 (Language)	ISO 639-2 (Language)	ISO 3166-1 Alpha-2 (Country)
Estonian Language	Official language in Estonia and the European Union. Spoken by native communities outside Estonia (e.g., in Russia).	et	est	N/A
Estonia	Country where Estonian is the official language.	N/A	N/A	EE

Note: The ISO 639-1 code for Estonian and the ISO 3166-1 code for Estonia are often combined to form the locale code: et-EE.<sup>4</sup>

Accounting Standards in Estonia

Accounting Standards in Estonia

Estonian accounting policy is governed by the Accounting Act of the Republic of Estonia and is highly aligned with international and European Union standards.<sup>5</sup>

There are two main financial reporting standards used in Estonia, depending on the size and type of the company:

- Estonian Financial Reporting Standard (Estonian GAAP):
  - This is the local standard, often referred to as "Good Accounting Practice."<sup>6</sup>
  - It is mandatory or generally recommended for most Small and Medium-sized Entities (SMEs).<sup>7</sup>
  - Basis: It is largely based on the IFRS for SMEs (International Financial Reporting Standard for Small and Medium-sized Entities), with some simplifications and modifications to align with local requirements.<sup>8</sup>
- IFRS as adopted by the EU:
  - IFRS stands for International Financial Reporting Standards (issued by the IASB).<sup>9</sup>
  - This standard is mandatory for consolidated financial statements of all companies whose securities trade on a regulated market in Estonia (i.e., listed public companies).
  - It is also mandatory for certain financial institutions (e.g., credit institutions, insurance undertakings).

- It is permitted (but usually not mandatory) for other companies, including separate company financial statements and larger SMEs who opt to use it.

Estonian GAAP vs. IFRS in Estonia

Estonian GAAP vs. IFRS in Estonia

Detailed breakdown of the differences and application requirements for the two main accounting standards in Estonia: Estonian Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (Estonian GAAP) and IFRS (International Financial Reporting Standards).

Estonia's accounting framework is designed to be scale-dependent, meaning the reporting requirements become less complex as the company size decreases. The choice between standards is often based on the company's size, public interest status, and ownership structure.

Feature	Estonian Financial Reporting Standard (Estonian GAAP)
Primary Basis	Heavily based on IFRS for SMEs (International Financial Reporting Standard for Small and Medium-sized Entities).

Complexity	Simpler and more streamlined. Contains fewer rules and requires significantly less disclosure.
------------	--

Target Entities	Recommended for Small and Medium-sized Entities (SMEs), including most private companies and e-Residency companies (OÜs) that are not required to use IFRS.
-----------------	---

Key Difference	The primary difference is in the level of disclosure required; Estonian GAAP requires far less disclosure than IFRS. The recognition and measurement principles are largely similar to IFRS for SMEs.
----------------	---

Mandatory Use

Generally mandatory for entities that do not meet the IFRS mandatory criteria.

Abridged Reports

Allows Micro-enterprises (very small companies, meeting certain criteria like asset and revenue limits) to prepare abridged annual reports with only a simplified balance sheet and income statement.

When Is IFRS Mandatory in Estonia?

The requirement to use IFRS as adopted by the EU is generally triggered by the company's public accountability or its nature as a financial intermediary.

Company Type	Standard Requirement
Public Companies	IFRS Required for consolidated financial statements (and often separate financial statements) if securities
Financial Institutions	IFRS Required for both consolidated and separate financial statements (e.g., credit institutions, insurance
All Other Entities	Estonian GAAP Recommended or IFRS Permitted (optional choice). Most SMEs choose Estonian GAAP d

In summary, the Estonian framework successfully harmonizes with global standards (IFRS) while providing a much simpler, local alternative (Estonian GAAP) for the vast majority of small and medium-sized businesses.

Estonian VAT

That is a detailed question covering both Estonian tax rates and accounting integration.

Here is an overview of the VAT percentages in Estonia and how the associated Output VAT and Input VAT typically fit within a standard Chart of Accounts (COA) for tax reporting.

Estonian VAT Percentages (Value Added Tax)

Estonia has three main VAT rates:

Rate	Percentage	Applicability
Standard Rate	22%	Applies to most goods and services, including general sales, imports, and intra-Community supplies (since January 1, 2024).
Reduced Rate 1	9%	Applies to specific items like accommodation services, books, certain daily and weekly publications, and medicines.
Reduced Rate 2	0%	Applies to exports, certain services related to international trade, intra-Community supplies of goods (under specific conditions), and financial/insurance services.

Note: Estonia implemented a VAT rate increase from 20% to 22% effective January 1, 2024.

Output VAT (Väljundkäibemaks) and Input VAT (Sisendkäibemaks) in the Chart of Accounts

In Estonia, the Chart of Accounts (COA) structure separates VAT payable (Output VAT) from VAT recoverable (Input VAT) to track the liability to the Estonian Tax and Customs Board (Maksu- ja Tolliamet – MTA).<sup>1</sup>

Both Output VAT and Input VAT are Balance Sheet accounts because they represent temporary claims or obligations that are settled monthly (or quarterly) when the VAT return is filed.

VAT Type	Estonian Term	Account Classification	Typical COA Range	Function/Alignment with VAT Return
Output VAT	Väljundkäibemaks	Liability Account	21xx or 22xx (Short-term liabilities)	This is the VAT collected on sales. This balance is Payable to the MTA. It aligns with the positive amounts reported on the VAT

Input VAT	Sisendkä ibemaks	Asset Account	13xx or 14xx (Current assets/Receivables)	return (KMD).  This is the VAT paid on purchases (recoverable VAT). This balance is Receivable from the MTA. It is deducted from Output VAT on the VAT return (KMD).
VAT Payable/Receivable	Kä ibemaksu arveldused	Liability Account	21xx (Often the clearing account)	This account is used to net the Output VAT against the Input VAT (usually via a journal entry) at the end of the tax period. The resulting balance is the final amount owed to (or due from) the MTA.

Alignment with VAT Returns (KMD)

The Estonian VAT return, known as the Kä ibemaksukohustuslase KMD (VAT Return), is filed monthly.<sup>2</sup>

- During the Period: Transactions debit or credit the specific Input VAT and Output VAT accounts.
- Period End (VAT Settlement): A reversing journal entry is posted to close the Input VAT and Output VAT accounts into the VAT Payable/Receivable clearing account.
  - If Output VAT > Input VAT, the clearing account shows a Credit balance (Liability), which is the amount paid to the MTA.
  - If Input VAT > Output VAT, the clearing account shows a Debit balance (Asset), which is the amount refunded by the MTA.

The final balance in the clearing account exactly matches the amount reported and paid/received on the KMD form.

VAT - Journal Entries for Estonian VAT (22% Standard Rate)

VAT – Journal Entries for Estonian VAT (22% Standard Rate)

That sounds great. Let's detail the typical journal entries for both sales (Output VAT) and purchases (Input VAT) and then briefly summarize how the final reporting mechanism works in the Estonian VAT Return (KMD).

We will use the following illustrative accounts, common in an Estonian COA:

Account Name	Account Type	COA Placeholder
Bank Account	Asset	1000
Revenue/Sales	Revenue	3000
Output VAT (22%)	Liability	2201
Purchases/Expenses	Expense	5000

Input VAT (22%)	Asset	1301
VAT Settlement	Liability (Clearing)	2290

1. Sales Transaction (Output VAT)

When a company sells goods for €1,220 (inclusive of 22% VAT), the entry is:

Date	Account	Debit (€)	Credit (€)	Rationale
XXX	1000 Bank Account	1,220		Increase in cash received.
XXX	3000 Revenue		1,000	Increase in sales revenue (Net amount).
XXX	2201 Output VAT (22%)		220	Increase in liability to the MTA (VAT collected).

2. Purchase Transaction (Input VAT)

When a company buys supplies for €610 (inclusive of 22% VAT), the entry is:

Date	Account	Debit (€)	Credit (€)	Rationale
XXX	5000 Purchases/Expenses	500		Increase in expenses (Net amount).
XXX	1301 Input VAT (22%)	110		Increase in asset/receivable from the MTA (VAT paid).
XXX	1000 Bank Account		610	Decrease in cash paid.

3. Monthly VAT Settlement (Netting Entry)

At the end of the month, the Input VAT is netted against the Output VAT. Assume the totals for the month are: Output VAT Credit balance of €5,000 and Input VAT Debit balance of €2,000.

Date	Account	Debit (€)	Credit (€)	Rationale
End of Month	2201 Output VAT	5,000		Clear (zero out) the Output VAT account.
End of Month	1301 Input VAT		2,000	Clear (zero out) the Input VAT account.
End of Month	2290 VAT Settlement		3,000	Record the Net VAT Payable to the MTA (€5,000 – €2,000).

The final €3,000 credit balance in the VAT Settlement account is the amount to be paid to the MTA.

Estonian VAT Return (KMD) Summary

The KMD (Käibemaksu Deklaratsioon) is the official monthly form filed with the MTA. The COA structure directly feeds into the relevant boxes on this form:

KMD Box No.	Description	COA Data Source
1	Taxable supply at 22%	Net Revenue (Account 3000) subject to 22% VAT.

4	VAT calculated on 22% rate	Total Credit Postings to Output VAT (22%) Account 2201.
5	Supplies at 9% (Reduced rate)	Net Revenue (Account 3000) subject to 9% VAT.
6	VAT calculated on 9% rate	Total Credit Postings to Output VAT (9%) Account 2202 (if applicable).
7	Input VAT deductible	Total Debit Postings to Input VAT (22% & 9%) Accounts 1301, 1302.
9	Net amount to be paid/refunded	The final balance of the VAT Settlement Account 2290.

This detailed setup ensures that the financial ledger provides all the necessary breakdown for the tax authority, guaranteeing compliance.

LabelID - 581 *Translate : Enter your details - You may enter your name

If you are customizing or localizing a language file for their town, language, country, or industry, you absolutely may add their name for credits or acknowledgement.

This practice is common in software localization, especially for community contributions, and is generally encouraged as it provides two key benefits:

- Acknowledgement and Credits: Adding your name (and perhaps contact information or organization name) serves as a way to receive credit for the significant effort involved in creating and maintaining the translation. If the localized file is ever shared or incorporated into future software releases, the credit ensures proper recognition.
- Source and Contact: Listing the creator's name makes it clear who the author and maintainer of that specific customization or localization is. This is helpful for:
  - Future Updates: If the software developer (osFinancials/TurboCASH) needs to contact the translator about updates, corrections, or merging the language file, they know exactly who to reach.
  - Support: Other users adopting the custom language file know who to contact if they find specific terms or phrases that need review or adjustment.

Dynamic Place holders

<@APPNAME@> there are 45 labels that include the <@APPNAME@> placeholder.

This dynamically inserts the application name (osFinancials or TurboCASH) based on the running version. Action: Do not translate the placeholder itself. Ensure the surrounding text flows naturally with the inserted application name.

- If you launch and opened a Set of Books in osFinancials5 , this will display osFinancials in the UI interface, and in labels and reports.
- If you launch and opened a Set of Books in TurboCASH5, this will display TurboCASH in the UI interface, and in labels and reports.

Unify button - Do not use the Unify button as this will change 3 legacy names of TurboCASH3 and 12 broken links to the turbocash.org website.

%s placeholders

This is a standard programming placeholder for inserting variables (e.g., numbers, dates, strings) into the text.

- Action: Do not translate the %s placeholder. Make sure it is positioned correctly in the translated sentence where the variable should appear.

LTR (Left-to-Right) setting

This setting must remain as LTR for all languages and should not be altered or translated.

3738 LTR

It is used exclusively to switch the display direction to RTL (Right-to-Left). This setting switches the display direction to RTL for languages such as Arabic, Hebrew, and others, ensuring proper mirrored layout support in osFinancials5/TurboCASH5-3.

Currencies

Amount in words

This printed when in options to Create receipts (Receipt journals lined to a Bank account and Receive payment option when processing open item transactions.

Critical for financial accuracy. The Main denomination) and Sub-denomination must correctly reflect the singular/base units of the currency (e.g., "Dollar," "Cent," "Euro," "Cents").

- Label 157 Main denomination of your currency e.g. Rand, Dollar, Euro
- Label 158 Sub-domination of your currency. e.g. Cents

Ensure these labels are translated with the singular forms of the main and sub-denominations.

Currency Symbol

Specific characters should be retained within Translations

- LabelID 20123 Filter (*.flt)*.flt the Pipe character inside the file extension must be included as this may cause issues with dialog boxes.
- Quotation marks:Excessive may be generated when translating languages. These quotation marks within the original string are often part of the message's syntax or intended display, not just part of the sentence structure. These quotation marks should exactly retain the quotation marks (" or ') in your translation:
  - 1122 "Price Name",Value
  - 2808 Expected " or '
  - 3535 This action will adjust the last date remittance at the "selected" debtors! Do you wish to continue?

Proof

What it is: A unique Dutch algorithm used to validate official numbers like Bank Accounts, Citizen Service Numbers (BSN), and formerly SOFI numbers. It checks if a number is valid, not just random digits.

11 Proof appears on the Accounting information tab of Debtor/Creditor accounts.

2208 11 Proof

2239 11 Proof

3087 Number %s is not a valid 11 proof number!

Arbitrair

What it is: In Dutch banking, this refers to a "variable" or "discretionary" payment amount. It's a field on payment forms where the amount isn't pre-printed or fixed, but filled in by the payer.

Arbitrair appears on the Accounting information tab of Debtor/Creditor accounts.

2209 Arbitrair

Clieop

Clieop appears on the Automatic receipts and Automatic payments options in the F9: Batch processing option launched within Journal entry (F2) screens.

Global Banking Identifiers

These terms—SWIFT, IBAN, and BIC—are the essential global standards for identifying banks and bank accounts, and they are crucial for both domestic and international electronic payments.

Here is a breakdown of each term and why they are necessary in a system like osFinancials5/TurboCASH5-3:

1. SWIFT

The term SWIFT is often used in a general sense to refer to the global network for transmitting secure financial messages, but it is also frequently used interchangeably with the bank's identifier code, the BIC.

- What it is: Society for Worldwide Interbank Financial Telecommunication. It's a vast global messaging system that banks use to send and receive information about financial transactions securely.
- When Used: It is required for international transfers outside of a specific region (like SEPA).
- Where it's Entered: In your system, it's entered in:
  - Setup -> Company info: To identify your own company's bank for outgoing/incoming international transfers.

2. BIC

- What it is: Bank Identifier Code. This is the standardized code that uniquely identifies a specific bank or financial institution worldwide. It is assigned by the SWIFT network, which is why it is often called the SWIFT Code.
- Format: It is an 8- or 11-character code (alphabetic and numeric).
  - Example: DEUTDEFF (8-character format for Deutsche Bank Germany).
- When Used: It's used alongside the IBAN to route payments to the correct destination bank.
- Where it's Entered: In your system, it's entered in:
  - Setup -> Company info: To identify your own bank for international payments.
  - Accounting information tab of Debtor/Creditor accounts: To identify the banks of your suppliers (Creditors) and customers (Debtors), allowing you to correctly route payments or direct debits.

3. IBAN

- What it is: International Bank Account Number. This is the standardized structure for defining a customer's bank account, designed to facilitate electronic payment processing across borders.
- Format: It is a unique string of up to 34 alphanumeric characters, composed of:
  - Country Code: 2 letters (e.g., DE for Germany, NL for Netherlands).
  - Check Digits: 2 numbers (used for local validation).
  - Bank Identifier (part of the local account number).
  - Basic Bank Account Number (BBAN).
- When Used: It is the standard identifier for transactions, especially within the SEPA zone (Europe), where it is often the only required identifier for cross-border transactions (replacing older domestic account numbers).
- Where it's Entered: In your system, it's entered in:
  - Setup -> Company info: To identify your own company's bank account.

- Accounting information tab of Debtor/Creditor accounts: This is the most crucial location, as you need the IBANs of your trading partners to process electronic payments (Creditors) and direct debits (Debtors).

Acronyms in Banking

These acronyms in Banking should generally NOT be translated in your software's user interface, forms, or technical documentation.

These three terms are treated as technical standards or proper nouns within the global financial industry.

LabelID	Acronym	Stands For (For Reference)	Why It's Not Translated
906015	IBAN	International Bank Account Number	This term is used globally and would make it unclear if translated.
906016	BIC	Bank Identifier Code	This is the official code used globally, regardless of language.
906017	SWIFT	Society for Worldwide Interbank Financial Telecommunication	This is the proper name of the organization.

Document types

The names of these document types for Sales documents (i.e. Invoices, Credit notes, Quotes, Delivery notes) and Purchase documents (i.e. Purchases, Supplier returns, Orders) are maintained in the following options:

- TYPES table: This table needs to be updated for each Set of Books as this is database specific. The names of these document types for Sales documents (i.e. Invoices, Credit notes, Quotes, Delivery notes) and Purchase documents (i.e. Purchases, Supplier returns, Orders) in the Types table should be singular as the 'TYPES.SDESCRIPTION' expression is used in universal document layout files. This will print and display the document name using the same document layout file. for all document types. Implications: If this is in the plural format, it would print Invoices on a single Invoice instead of Invoice.
- Language files: If you change the document name in the TYPES table, you need to align it with the translations in the language file. Your language file may include Singular or Plural forms of your document type depending on the context.

Paths to Menu Items (Use Arrow and Single Quotes)

The use of single quotes and the right-facing arrow ( `>` ) for navigation paths is mandatory. The arrow is much more intuitive than the old `->` ASCII arrow.

- Format: 'Menu > Submenu' (e.g., 'Setup > Documents setup')
- Action: Review the following translations to align the path notation with the actual English display:

LabelID	NEW Path ( )
696	Invalid next number! Change it in ' Setup Documents setup! '
711	Run ' Setup Journal types ' and select contra account for this journal!
724	Internet setup information is incorrect! Run ' Setup Internet '.

1053	Select ' Setup Company info ' you want to change!

Buttons within language files

Enclosing button names in square brackets ( [ ] ) within message translations is a great choice. It sets a clear, bold boundary around the actionable text, making the instruction stand out.

- Format: [Button Name]
- Action: Review these labels for correctness and consistency in using the square brackets:

Spelling, Typos, Punctuation, and Shortcuts

Ensure all translated text is grammatically and mechanically correct, paying special attention to system-specific characters.

- Action: Perform a dedicated proofreading pass on the UI elements and report output.
- Goal: Correct all spelling mistakes, typographical errors, incorrect capitalization, and ensure punctuation follows the standard conventions of the target language.

Specific Punctuation Checks

Commas, Periods and Exclamation marks should be used appropriately according to the target language's grammatical rules.

Ampersand ' & ' Characters

This character is included in the text of your translation because it is a shortcut key for UI navigation (access key or mnemonic).

Do not remove the ampersand unless you are intentionally setting a new, different shortcut key, and ensure the shortcut letter is unique and valid for the control. For example, &File makes F the shortcut key.

Incomplete or Missing Translations

Translations that are incomplete or missing critical technical information pose a serious risk to application functionality and user understanding.

Issue	Description & Risk	Remedial Action
Missing Translation	The message is simply untranslated (e.g., still showing the English source text).	Ensure every Label ID in your language file has a corresponding translation.
Incomplete Information	The translated message is present but missing some critical information necessary for the user to act.	Review the translation against the source text to ensure all instructions, variables, and technical elements are included.
Missing Placeholders	The translation omits dynamic elements like placeholders (<@APPNAME@> or %s) or	Crucial: Verify that all dynamic placeholders (<@APPNAME@>, %s) and UI shortcut characters (&) from

	shortcut characters (&amp;).	the source text are included in the correct position within the translated message.
Missing Formatting	The translation omits necessary formatting, such as square brackets around buttons ([OK]) or arrows in menu paths ('Setup Accounts').	Refer to the Standardized Formatting and Navigation guidelines and ensure all brackets, quotes, and arrows are correctly used.

Terminology and Conceptual Consistency Review

Ensure that terminology is consistent and accurate across the entire application, especially where concepts link different modules (UI labels, reports, and underlying database references).

- General Consistency & Core Modules
  - Verify consistent translation for foundational terms used across all modules.
    - Customer/Supplier Terminology: Is the term always "Customer" or "Debtor"? Is it always "Supplier" or "Creditor"? Do not mix these pairs.
    - Inventory Terminology: Is the item being tracked consistently translated as "Stock," "Inventory," or "Items"?
    - Tax Terminology: Is the tax consistently translated as the official local name (e.g., "VAT," "GST," "Sales Tax," "IVA," "MwSt," etc.)?
  - Specific Functional Consistency
  - Focus on specialized modules where consistent naming is essential for system function and reporting.

Functional Area	Consistency Requirement
Stock/Inventory Processing	Ensure translations for Batch , Lot , Serial , Location , and Warehouse are consistently applied and managed or displayed.
Reconciliation	Use a single, standard term for " Reconciliation " (e.g., of bank accounts or statements) across all modules and related reports.
Open Item Processing	Maintain consistency for terms related to open item tracking, such as " Allocations ," " Settlements ," and " Transactions " (which handle outstanding invoices).
Budgeting	Ensure terms for " Budget ," " Forecast ," and " Variance " are consistently applied throughout all modules. Confusion often occurs between "Budget" and similar planning tools like "Quotes."
Orders &amp; Backorders	Maintain distinct and consistent translations for " Order ," " Sales Order ," " Purchase Order ," and " Backorder " to separate future demand from current stock fulfillment.
Spreadsheets	As previously established, use terminology for " Spreadsheet " elements (e.g., cell, row, column) consistently, aligning with common applications like Microsoft Excel in the target language.

Back-end Database References Pay critical attention to text (often hidden in messages or system settings) that references names. The translation of concepts like "Document Types" (e.g., "Invoice," "Quote") must adhere to the convention in the TYPES table and the UI.

- Document Types: Ensure the terms used for documents are consistent across the UI, reports, and the database, particularly where confusion might arise:
  - Is the planning document called a "Quote" or a "Quotation"?
  - Is the Budget called a "Budget" or a "Forecast"?
  - Ensure the translation used for the singular document name in the TYPES table (as previously discussed) is consistently used when referring to a single instance of that document type throughout the UI.
- Module/UI Labels: Review the main navigational labels to ensure similar concepts share the same root term:
  - If the Accounts Payable module is labeled "Suppliers," ensure related functions (like reporting) don't suddenly use the term "Creditors" without proper context.

Acronyms and specialized terms

Acronyms and specialized terms like POS (Point of Sale) and BOM (Bill of Materials) should be compliant and follow the target language's official, professional accounting and industry terminology when localizing software.

This is a critical requirement in professional accounting localization for several reasons:

- Legal Compliance: Official accounting and tax forms in the target country rely on standardized terminology. Misusing an acronym could lead to confusion or legal errors.
- Professional Clarity: Accountants and financial professionals expect to see the standard terms they use every day in their local language. Using an unfamiliar or transliterated term reduces the software's credibility and usability.
- User Training: Users are often trained using materials that use the local language's acronyms and terms. Consistency minimizes the learning curve.

Key Acronyms and Terms to Localize

When translating financial software, you must find the direct, professionally recognized equivalent for the target language:

English Term	Context	Localization Focus
POS (Point of Sale)	Retail, Sales	Use the official local acronym or phrase for retail transaction
BOM (Bill of Materials)	Manufacturing, Inventory	Use the official local acronym or phrase for the complete list for production.

VAT (Value-Added Tax)	Tax, Compliance	Must be translated to the official local tax name (e.g., GST, HST).
GAAP	Accounting Standards	Translate to the locally accepted acronym for Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (or its regional equivalent, e.g., IFRS).
COGS (Cost of Goods Sold)	Accounting, Income Statement	Use the standard local accounting term for this expense category.

Action for Translator: Always consult official government tax documentation, local accounting board standards, or leading professional accounting software manuals in the target language to verify the correct acronym and terminology.

Reviewing/Refreshing Your Translations

Once you have translated, customized, or localized your language file and closed the 'Customise languages' screen, the new translations will generally be reflected automatically in the osFinancials/TurboCASH UI interface.

In the following instances, you need to manually refresh the view to ensure the new translations take effect:

1. Refreshing Open Forms: If you have forms open (such as Debtors, Creditors, Stock, Documents, etc.), you must close them for the new translations to apply to those screens.
  - Action: Go to Tools -> Close active forms to close all currently open forms. The next time you open a form, the updated text will be displayed.
2. Refreshing the Plugins Menu: To ensure that the Plugins menu (and any associated text) reflects the latest translations:
  - Action: Go to Tools -> Activate plugins and then simply close this screen. This forces the system to refresh the plugin names and related labels.

Reviewing and Correcting Your Translations/Customizations/Localizations

Once you have translated, customized, or localized your language file, it's essential to perform a thorough review and correction process directly within the osFinancials/TurboCASH UI interface and all generated reports.

Quality Assurance checklist:

1. UI (User Interface) and Report Constraints: Check that all translated text fits correctly within the designated fields, buttons, and report columns/headers.
  - Action: Systematically navigate through all main windows, dialogue boxes, and generate and review all key reports (Income Statement, Balance Sheet, Trial Balance, Sales/Purchase journals, etc.).
  - Goal: Check for labels, buttons, menu items, column headers, or report descriptions that are overflowing or truncated (cut off). This is a common issue when your translation is significantly longer than the original English source text.

2. Terminology and Inconsistencies: Ensure that you have used the correct and consistent terminology throughout the entire application, and crucially, that the terms used in the UI match those displayed in the reports.
  - Action: Create a glossary of key terms and verify every instance of their translation in both the user interface and the final printed reports.
  - Key Terms to Check (Consistency):
    - Customer/Sales: Debtors, Customers, Sales, Quotes, Invoices, Delivery Notes.
    - Supplier/Purchases: Creditors, Suppliers, Purchases, Orders, Supplier Returns.
    - Inventory: Stock, Inventory, Items, Products.
    - Financial/Reporting: Document Types, Tax, VAT, GST, Spreadsheets, Budgets, Assets, Liabilities, Equity.
3. Spelling, Typos, and Punctuation: Even minor errors can undermine the professionalism and trustworthiness of the osFinancials/TurboCASH.
  - Action: Perform a dedicated proofreading pass on the UI elements and report output.
  - Goal: Correct all spelling mistakes, typographical errors, incorrect capitalization, and ensure punctuation (commas, periods, quotation marks, etc.) follows the standard conventions of the target language.
4. Compliance and Legal Context: Ensure all translated and customized text, especially that which appears on statutory documents and reports, adheres to local legal and financial requirements.
  - Action: Cross-reference translations of legal text, tax descriptions, and financial statement line items against local accounting standards (e.g., IFRS, GAAP).
  - Goal: Verify that translated legal disclaimers, document footers, or tax descriptions (required for tax returns) are legally accurate and compliant with the country's tax authority and reporting framework.
5. UI (User Interface) Constraints: Check that all translated text fits correctly within the designated fields and buttons.
  - Action: Systematically navigate through all main windows, dialogue boxes, and reports.
  - Goal: Check for labels, buttons, menu items, or column headers that are overflowing or truncated (cut off). This is a common issue when your translation is significantly longer than the original English source text.
6. Terminology and Inconsistencies: Ensure that you have used the correct and consistent terminology throughout the entire application, especially for accounting and business-critical terms.
  - Action: Create a glossary of key terms and verify every instance of their translation.
  - Key Terms to Check (Consistency):
    - Customer/Sales: Debtors, Customers, Sales, Quotes, Invoices, Delivery Notes.
    - Supplier/Purchases: Creditors, Suppliers, Purchases, Orders, Supplier Returns.
    - Inventory: Stock, Inventory, Items, Products.
    - Financial/Reporting: Document Types, Tax, VAT, GST, Spreadsheets, Budgets, Assets, Liabilities, Equity.

7. Spelling, Typos, and Punctuation: Even minor errors can undermine the professionalism and trustworthiness of the osFinancials/TurboCASH.
- Action: Perform a dedicated proofreading pass, ideally using a grammar or spelling check tool where possible, or have a native speaker review the work.
  - Goal: Correct all spelling mistakes, typographical errors, incorrect capitalization, and ensure punctuation (commas, periods, quotation marks, etc.) follows the standard conventions of the target language.
8. Compliance and Legal Context: Ensure all translated and customized text adheres to local legal and financial requirements.
- Action: Cross-reference translations of legal text, tax descriptions, and financial statements against local accounting standards (e.g., IFRS, GAAP).
  - Goal: Verify that translated legal disclaimers, document footers, or tax descriptions are legally accurate and compliant with the country's tax authority and reporting framework.

Estonian - Excessive Quotation marks within translations

Estonian - Excessive Quotation marks within translations

You are absolutely correct. In professional software localization for Estonian, it is better to use the double angle quotes (« ») or simply single quotes (') for referencing button names or short technical phrases, and to avoid using nested double straight quotes (" ") which can be confusing or look unprofessional. The provided Estonian translations are using excessive straight double quotes.

Here is the corrected list, removing the unnecessary and confusing straight double quotes. I will use the double angle quotes (« ») which are common for quoting terms and buttons in Estonian typography, and replace instances of nested quotes with single quotes or angles.

Reviews/Corrections - Set of Books Consistency

Reviews/Corrections - Set of Books Consistency

You are highlighting a critical consistency issue in localization: the translation of the core term "Set of Books".

In the provided Estonian strings, "Set of Books" has been translated using at least four different terms:

1. Ettevõte (Company/Business) – IDs 16, 17, 18, 172, 447, 448, 471, 535, 541, 886, 20079
2. Andmestik (Dataset/Data set) – IDs 104, 175, 451, 471, 512, 518, 519, 535, 539, 541, 547, 548, 558, 559, 560, 572, 635, 636, 699, 744, 767, 826, 836, 877, 913, 1049, 1060, 1292, 1806, 1817, 1827, 1831, 2116, 2168, 2897
3. Raamatupakk (Book package/Set of books – direct translation, usually used for backup/restore) – IDs 455, 536, 544, 565, 898, 899, 917, 921, 1007, 1816, 1818, 2109, 2977, 3003, 3004
4. Raamatud (Books) – IDs 425, 443, 444, 717

To ensure consistency and technical accuracy (as "Set of Books" is the official data container name), we should select the most appropriate single term and apply it uniformly, while also correcting the punctuation inconsistencies we previously identified.

That makes perfect sense. Using Ettevõte (Company/Business) covers the overall organizational context, which includes any type of entity (personal, sole proprietorship, partnership, specific industry types like manufacturing or farming, etc.). This makes it the best choice for the most visible UI strings.

To maximize user-friendliness and prevent confusion, I have removed the technical term "Andmestik" (Dataset) and replaced it with "Ettevõte" (Company) or "Andmed" (Data) where appropriate. This ensures the language stays consistent with a business and accounting context rather than a database management context.

By using "Ettevõte" and "Andmed", the software feels more professional and intuitive for an Estonian business user.

Would you like to apply a similar logic to other core terms, such as General Ledger, Stock/Inventory, or Contacts/Customers?

This revised approach ensures that the general user interface relates to the Ettevõtte (Company), which aligns with the user's perception of the business entity, while technical actions dealing with file manipulation or corruption use Andmestik (Dataset/Data structure).

Would you like to review any of the specific term substitutions or move on to the next set of strings?

I recommend using Andmestik as the core translation, as it directly refers to the collection of data files (database) that constitutes the "Set of Books," which is a highly technical meaning. However, the term Ettevõtte (Company) is used in UI elements like menus (16, 17, 18) and might be retained there for user familiarity, but for the most critical warnings, Andmestik should be used.

Given the scope of this review, I will standardize the text on Andmestik and apply punctuation corrections.

Reviews/Corrections - Database - Table names

Reviews/Corrections - Database - Table names

Review of Sysvars Translations (UI Context) - 903102, 903156, 903168

That is an extremely important detail for application maintenance and consistency. Internal database names like `Sysvars` (System Variables) should never be translated, as it breaks the link between the code, the database schema, and the displayed message, making debugging impossible.

However, the items in the list appear to be menu options, labels, or confirmation messages (front-end UI strings) that reference the `Sysvars` table. In these cases, the user-facing text should be translated, while the internal reference might be left untranslated if it's meant for a developer or advanced user.

If the English source uses `sysvars` and the context is UI/Menu/Action, the best practice is:

- Translate the concept: Use the professional Estonian term for "System Variables" or "System Parameters" (`Süsteemimuutujad`).
- Retain the internal name: If the source uses the English table name, we should keep it for internal identification or, if necessary, place it in parentheses.

Since the original Estonian already uses `süsteemimuutujad`, we will confirm that translation is correct for the UI, but we will not translate the source `sysvars` label itself.

ID	Estonian (Original)	English (source)	Estonian (Corrected)	Notes/Rationale
903102	Süsteemimuutujad	Sysvars	Süsteemimuutujad	Confirmed. This is the correct UI translation for "System Variables/Parameters". The internal table name <code>Sysvars</code> is not translated in the source, so it remains untranslated in the back-end reference.
903156	Tühjenda Süsteemimuutujate parameetrid	Clear Sysvars parameters	Tühjenda Süsteemimuutujate parameetrid	Confirmed. "Clear System Variables parameters." Consistency is maintained.

903168	Lä htesta süsteemimuutujad	Reset Sysvars	Lä htesta süsteemimuutujad	Confirmed. "Reset System Variables." Consistency is maintained.
---------------	-------------------------------	---------------	---------------------------------------	--

If the UI constraints are so extreme that the full, correct translation (Süsteemimuutujate) cannot be used, and the source is forcing the use of the internal table name (Sysvars), then we must use Sysvars as the primary, visible label, despite it being non-Estonian.

This situation requires an exception to standard localization rules to meet technical constraints.

Here is the revised table, using sysvars directly as the label where required, and adjusting the surrounding Estonian grammar accordingly.

Final Sysvars Translations (Extreme UI Constraint)

We will assume that Sysvars is the only acceptable term for display and must be treated as a title or proper noun.

ID	Estonian (Original)	English (source)	Estonian (Corrected)	Notes/Rationale
903102	Süsteemimuutujad	Sysvars	Sysvars	Finalized. Used the untranslated term directly as the title/label to comply with the extreme constraint.
903156	Tühjenda Süsteemimuutujate parameetrid	Clear Sysvars parameters	Tühjenda Sysvarsi parameetrid	Finalized. Used Sysvars in the genitive case ( Sysvarsi ) to indicate possession ("Sysvars' parameters"). This is the most grammatically correct way to integrate the foreign term.
903168	Lä htesta süsteemimuutujad	Reset Sysvars	Lä htesta Sysvars	Finalized. Used the untranslated term directly in the command.

This final set of translations is the most constrained version, prioritizing the Sysvars label over the correct

Estonian translation due to UI limitations.

Review and Correction for ID 903158

That is another excellent point regarding database and system references. Following the principle we established for `Sysvars`, if `BatCon` and `Transact` are internal, untranslatable database or module names, they must be preserved in the user-facing text, ideally in a manner that sets them apart from the regular text. Using single quotes is a common and effective UI method for this.

The English source: `Remove BatCon not in Transact` The core issue is that the Estonian translation does not use correct grammatical cases for the internal names.

We will treat `BatCon` and `Transact` as untranslatable foreign nouns and adjust the Estonian grammar around them.

ID	Estonian (Original)	English (source)	Estonian (Corrected)	Notes/Rationale
903158	Eemalda BatCon, mis ei ole kandes	Remove BatCon not in Transact	Eemalda 'BatCon', mis ei kuulu 'Transact'-i	Refined. Used single quotes for clarity. <code>BatCon</code> is in the Nominative case (subject of removal). <code>Transact-i</code> is used in the Illative case (into/within Transact), which correctly reflects the meaning "not present in Transact."

Reviews/Corrections - & Access keys

Reviews/Corrections - Ampersand (&) Access keys

This is an excellent quality control review. The ampersand (&) character is critical in UI localization as it denotes the keyboard access key (accelerator key) for that menu item or control. If the English source has an ampersand, the Estonian translation must also have one, and it should ideally be on the same letter, or a logical letter if the original letter doesn't exist or is not suitable.

We will review each entry and ensure the ampersand is present in the correct position in the Estonian (Corrected) column and indicate the status in the Notes/Rationale column. We will also perform minor stylistic corrections where appropriate (e.g., using `Konto&plaan` instead of `Kontopl&aan` for better flow, but the primary focus is the &).

A significant number of translations were missing the required ampersand (&) entirely, or had it in a grammatically/stylistically poor position. All have been corrected to include the ampersand, prioritizing the first letter of the primary word as the access key for consistency and ease of use.

Reviews/Corrections - Exclamation Mark (!) Consistency

Reviews/Corrections - Exclamation Mark (!) Consistency

This is another excellent check for consistency and professional tone. The exclamation mark (!) in error, warning, or completion messages is a critical element for conveying urgency or finality, and it should match the source language conventions.

We will review each pair. If the English source contains an exclamation mark, the Estonian translation should also include one, and vice versa. We will also perform minor corrections to punctuation and style where appropriate.

Menu paths - Arrow → Consistency

Menu paths - Arrow → Consistency

You are right to enforce consistency for menu paths as well. Using the right arrow → is the established standard for indicating navigation sequence in software documentation and interfaces, translating directly from the English source structure (e.g., 'Setup → Documents setup').

I have reviewed and corrected the Estonian translations to ensure the right arrow → is correctly and consistently used, and also made minor linguistic improvements where needed.

For label 890, the structure in the Estonian translation was slightly different ("leia '...' / "find '..."). I have adjusted it to better match the typical menu path instruction style, where the path is presented as a fixed reference.

Reviews/Corrections - Stock/Inventory Translations

Reviews/Corrections – Stock/Inventory Translations

This is a comprehensive request regarding inventory management terminology in Estonian accounting. Since you are asking for formal and professional language, we will prioritize terms that are widely accepted in Estonian financial software for Inventory (Stock) and Inventory Items (Stock Items).

The standard and most professional terms are:

- Inventory/Stock (Module): Ladu
- Inventory Item/Stock Item (Product): Laokaup (or Toode if emphasizing product)
- Inventory Balance/Level: Laoseis
- Inventory Movement: Laoliikumine

I will review and correct the provided list, focusing on consistency and professional language.

Reviews/Corrections - Report & Reporting Translations

Reviews/Corrections – Report & Reporting Translations

This is a significant list. To make these professional and consistent, we need to address a few linguistic patterns in Estonian:

1. Compound Words: Estonian often merges words like "Laoaruanded" (Stock reports), but for clarity in menus, "Lao aruanded" is also seen. I will prioritize the most professional standard.
2. Genitive Case: "Report options" should be "Aruande valikud" (singular "of the report") or "Aruannete valikud" (plural "of the reports").
3. Typo Cleanup: I noticed a few typos in your current list (e.g., "Araunde", "aruandegrupp", "alamaruane") which I have corrected below.
4. Journal Consistency: Per our previous agreement, I have replaced "Batch type" with "Lausendi tüüp".

Reviews/Corrections - POS Terminology

Reviews/Corrections - POS Terminology

You are correct that consistency and brevity are key for POS (Point-of-Sale) related terms, especially due to typical UI constraints.

The most common and appropriate Estonian translation for "Point-of-Sale" is Müügikoht. However, due to the need for abbreviations and acronyms, it is best practice in software to use the international abbreviation POS or a combination term.

The current translations use both Kassa (Till/Cash Register) and Müügikoht (Point-of-Sale). I will standardize the short, technical labels to use POS and reserve Müügikoht for longer, descriptive phrases where needed.

Reviews/Corrections - Journal module translations Stock module

You are absolutely right. I apologize for the confusion. I over-corrected based on the assumption of a stock module. Let me re-analyze this logically.

The core issue is that "Partii" in the *original Estonian source* (column 1) is likely a **mistranslation or legacy term**. The *English source* "Journal" is the correct concept for the accounting module. Therefore, our task is to **correct the original Estonian by using the proper accounting term "Lausend", not to justify "partii".

Let's correct all these entries consistently with the "Journal/Andmik" terminology used elsewhere in the accounting module:

ID	Estonian Source (et)	English Source (en)	Estonian (Corrected)	Notes/Rationale
903 106	Puhasta pakett	Cleanup journal	Puhasta lausend	"Cleanup journal". Corrects the misleading "pakett". Refers to cleaning up journal data.
906 074	Partii	Journal	Lausend	Corrects the source. "Partii" is wrong. Refers to the general concept of a journal.
906 082	Partii tüübi ID	Journal type id	Lausendi tüübi ID	Corrects the source. Should be "Journal type ID".
906 098	Partii tüübi aruanne	Journal type report	Lausendi tüübi aruanne	Corrects the source. Report on journal types.
906 099	Partii ID	Journal id	Lausendi ID	Corrects the source. Identifier for a specific journal.
906 100	Postitatud partii	Posted journal	Postitatud lausend	Corrects the source. A journal that has been posted.
906 101	Postitamata partii	Unposted journal	Postitamata lausend	Corrects the source. An unposted/draft journal.
906 141	Partii tehingud perioodi kohta	Journal transactions per period	Lausendi tehingud perioodi kohta	Corrects the source. Transactions within a journal for a specific period.

Key Takeaway:

The original Estonian source text (column 1) for these high-ID entries contains the incorrect term "Partii" or "Pakett". Our job in the "Estonian (Corrected)" column is to fix this error and use the consistent, professional accounting terminology established for the Journal module: "Lausend" and its derivatives (Lausend tüüp, Postitatud lausend, etc.).

Thank you for your patience and for insisting on clarity. This final table provides the correct, consistent translations for the Journal module.

Alias – Varjunime Inconsistencies

Need to change the language of the response to Estonian.

These translations show a mix of using Alias and Varjunimi for the term "Alias." Both are acceptable in Estonian, but for consistency within a single application, it is best to choose one. Varjunimi is the native Estonian term, while Alias is the direct borrowing.

Given that the current translation for 1756 already uses Varjunimi, and 2085 uses Alias, we need to harmonize them. Using Varjunimi is often preferred for official localization to sound more natural.

Let's review the consistency and correct the mixing of terms:

Et tagada ühtlus, standardiseerime termini Varjunimi kasutamise, kuna see on olemasolev Muuda varjunime tõlge:

ID	English Source (en)	Hetke Eesti Tõlge (et)	Korrapä rane Tõlge	Mä rkused/Jä rjepide vus
1756	Change alias (journal name)	Muuda varjunime (lausendi nimi)	Muuda varjunime (lausendi nimi)	Jä ta alles. Kasutab native terminit.
2029	&Change alias	Muuda alia	&Muuda varjunime	Parandatud. Standardiseeritud terminile Varjunimi.
2085	Alias (journal name)	Alias (lausendi nimi)	Varjunimi (lausendi nimi)	Parandatud. Standardiseeritud terminile Varjunimi.
3033	Auto-alias	Automaatne alias	Automaatne varjunimi	Parandatud. Standardiseeritud terminile Varjunimi.
906003	Alias	Alias	Varjunimi	Parandatud. Standardiseeritud terminile Varjunimi.

Need parandused tagavad, et kõik "Alias" seotud terminid kasutavad jä rjepidevalt eestikeelset terminit Varjunimi.

Reviews/Corrections - Creditor/Supplier Translations

Reviews/Corrections – Creditor Translations

The list focuses on Creditor-related terminology. In Estonian professional accounting, there are two common terms for Creditor:

1. Hankija (Supplier/Vendor) – Used when referring to the entity we buy goods/services from. This is very common in ERP/business software.
2. Võlausaldaja (Creditor/Lender) – The formal legal/financial term for a party to whom we owe money (the opposite of Võlgnik / Debtor).
3. Kreeditor (Credit) – An older term often avoided in modern UIs, except in specific financial contexts.

For consistency, clarity, and adherence to modern business software standards, we will use Hankija for general supplier/creditor master files and reports, and Võlausaldaja only where the legal/financial context is emphasized (e.g., ID 2860). We will replace the non-standard term Kreeditor.

Reviews/Corrections – Supplier Translations

This list focuses on the distinction between Hankija (Creditor/Vendor) and Tarnija (Supplier/Provider) and the specific term Tarnija tagastused (Supplier Returns).

In Estonian business software:

- Hankija is primarily used for the accounting entity (Creditor).
- Tarnija is primarily used for the physical entity providing goods/services (Supplier).

Since most of these items relate to physical document and stock movement (Returns, Purchases, Stock Codes), Tarnija is often the most appropriate term, but we must ensure consistency with other sections (e.g., Reports, where Hankija may be preferred).

We will use Tarnija for most physical/document labels and ensure professional language.

Reviews/Correction - Open Item Translations

Reviews/Correction – Open Item Translations

The concept of "Open Item" in accounting refers to transactions that are still open or outstanding (not yet settled or matched), and in Estonian professional terminology, this is consistently translated as Avatud Kirje (Open Entry/Item).

The previous original Estonian translations use several inconsistent terms, including:

- objekt (object) – Incorrect/too general.
- ese (item/thing) – Acceptable but less precise than kirje.
- vara arvestus (asset accounting) – Clearly incorrect in context.
- avatud kaubad (open goods/items) – Acceptable but less precise.

We will standardize all instances to use Avatud Kirje (Open Item/Entry) and its various forms, as this is the most professional and common usage in Estonian accounting software.

Reviews/Corrections - BOM Translations

Reviews/Corrections – BOM Translations

The term BOM (Bill of Materials) is consistently translated in professional Estonian manufacturing and accounting contexts as Materjalide Loetelu (List of Materials) or the more traditional Materjaliarvestus (Material Accounting/Calculation).

The original translations provided use:

1. KOMPL. / Komplektatsioon: This is an abbreviation/term for 'Kit' or 'Assembly/Kitting,' which is a type of BOM, but not the general translation for BOM itself.
2. Materjalarve: This translates literally to 'Material Invoice' and is inappropriate.

We will standardize the translation to Materjalide Loetelu (BOM) or use the abbreviation M.L. if UI constraints are strict, and correct the inappropriate terms.

ID	Estonian (Original)	English (source)	Estonian (Corrected)	Notes/Rationale
2920	KOMPL.	BOM	M.L.	Standardized. Used the common abbreviation M.L. (Materjalide Loetelu) for a constrained UI space, replacing the ambiguous KOMPL..
2923	Komplektatsioon / retsept	BOM list	Materjalide Loetelu / Retsept	Standardized. Used Materjalide Loetelu (List of Materials) as the full standard term for BOM, replacing Komplektatsioon.

3266	Materjaliarve (Tootmine)	BOM (Production)	Materjalide Loetelu (Tootmine)	Standardized. Replaced the incorrect Materjaliarve with the standard term Materjalide Loetelu.

Reviews/Corrections – BOM Translations – Prioritizing

Abbreviation M.L

Given that BOM translations are often used in tight spaces (column headers, list items), using the official abbreviation is crucial.

As discussed, the most common and clear official abbreviation for Materjalide Loetelu (Bill of Materials) is M.L..

Here is the revised list, prioritizing the M.L. abbreviation for maximum constraint satisfaction, unless a full phrase is explicitly necessary for clarity (like in a detailed system message).

ID	Estonian (Original)	English (source)	Estonian (Corrected & Abbreviated)	Notes/Rationale
2920	KOMPL.	BOM	M.L.	Standard Abbreviation. Standard use for a direct "BOM" label.
2923	Komplektatsioon / retsept	BOM list	M.L. loetelu / Retsept	Abbreviated. Used M.L. loetelu (M.L. list) for the list name.
3266	Materjaliarve (Tootmine)	BOM (Production)	M.L. (Tootmine)	Abbreviated. Used M.L. (BOM) in the context of production.

				Abbreviated. Used M.L. to shorten the phrase, focusing on the calculation command.
3301	Arvuta materjaliarvestuse (BOM) laoseis	Calculate BOM stock	Arvuta M.L. laoseis	Abbreviated. Used M.L. -st (Elative case) and M.L. -i (Illative case) to shorten the long system message while retaining professional terminology.
903122	Eemalda materjaliloetelust see, mis ei ole materjaliloetelu	Remove from BOM which is not BOM	Eemalda M.L.-st see, mis ei kuulu M.L.-i

These translations are now optimized for UI constraints using the M.L. abbreviation.

Corrected Estonian Translations with Number Abbreviation (nr.)

Standard Estonian Abbreviation Rule

The correct standard for abbreviating "number" in Estonian is indeed nr. (including the period).

- In Estonian, when a multi-word phrase is abbreviated (e.g., number or numbri), a period (.) is used after the shortened form to indicate the abbreviation.
- nr. is the universally accepted, standard way to write "number" (as in "No.") in official and technical Estonian text, including user interfaces.

The corrections I provided in the previous turn correctly applied the nr. standard throughout your list. If your system requires the period for compliance or consistency, you should definitely use nr.

For example:

- Arve number (Invoice number)    Arve nr.
- Dokumendi number (Document number)    Dokumendi nr.

Reviews/Corrections - Credit Note in Estonia

Reviews/Corrections - Credit Note in Estonia

While Kreeditkorraldus (literally "Credit Order/Instruction") is widely used in business software in Estonia (and is used in many of your report labels), the most direct and least ambiguous term that avoids the word "Order" is the one you had in your original list: Krediitarve (Credit Invoice).

That's an excellent point regarding consistency and local usage. Since you noted that Kreeditkorraldus is:

1. Widely used in business software in Estonia.
2. Already present in many of your report labels.

Then, standardizing on Kreeditkorraldus is the superior choice for application consistency and user familiarity, despite the slightly ambiguous translation of "order/instruction." In localization, aligning with existing usage and maximizing internal consistency often outweighs literal translation purity.

We will revert the final correction and standardize the entire list to Kreeditkorraldus, as we did two turns ago, to ensure uniformity across the UI and reports.

Alternative: Standardizing to 'Krediitarve' (Credit Invoice)

Since Kreeditkorraldus may sound like an "order" or "instruction" rather than a formal "note/invoice," let's switch to Krediitarve as the standard base term. This directly links it to Arve (Invoice), which is the document it corrects.

I will perform the final correction, standardizing on Krediitarve.

Reviews/Corrections - Quote Translations (Standardizing to 'Hinnapakkumine')

Review of Quote Translations (Standardizing to 'Hinnapakkumine')

Identified an inconsistency in the Estonian translations for "Quote," where both Pakkumine and Hinnapakkumine are used. Since your TYPES table uses 'Hinnapakkumine', we should standardize on Hinnapakkumine to ensure consistency across the application, as it is the more precise term ("Price Quote" or "Offer").

Below is the review, correction, and rationale, indicating if the original translation was correct based on this standardization rule.

Pakkumine (Offer/Proposal) / Hinnapakkumine (Price Quote, Price Offer)

That is a critical distinction for professional accuracy in an accounting system.

Based on the context you provided – where a document is issued to a customer (debtor) and, upon acceptance, is converted into a binding financial document (invoice) – the term Hinnapakkumine is the most correct and professional accounting terminology used in Estonia.

Analysis

1. Pakkumine (Offer/Proposal): This is a general, commercial, or business term. It simply means a "Proposal" or "Offer." It may or may not include pricing details and is often used in non-specific contexts.
2. Hinnapakkumine (Price Offer/Quote): This term explicitly means a "Price Offer" or "Price Quote." By including Hind (Price), it clearly signifies that the document contains specific, agreed-upon pricing that is intended to become the basis for a future financial transaction (the invoice).

In an ERP or accounting system, when dealing with documents that directly affect the sales process and lead to an invoice, precision is paramount.

Term	Meaning	Use in Accounting/ERP	Recommendation
Pakkumine	Offer, Proposal	Too general; lacks financial specificity.	Avoid for official labels.
Hinnapakkumine	Price Quote, Price Offer	Explicitly specifies the price terms leading to a committed sales order or invoice.	Highly Recommended (Most Professional).

Since the Quote is directly convertible into an Invoice, using Hinnapakkumine maintains the professional financial link and removes ambiguity. This confirms the standardization established in the previous review was correct.

Reviews/Corrections - Purchase document Translations

Reviews/Corrections - Purchase document Translations

The translations related to 'Purchase' show a good grasp of using the Estonian root ost (Purchase).

There are two primary ways the term is used in your list:

- ostuarve (Purchase Invoice): For specific invoices.
- ost (Purchase): As a general noun, usually for reporting/menu sections.

Given your TYPES table uses 'Ost' Singular, we will standardize on ostuarve for documents and ost/Ostud for general context, refining the grammar where necessary.

Reviews/Corrections of Order (Purchase Order) Translations

Reviews/Corrections of Order (Purchase Order)

Translations

This is a complex set of translations because the English term "Order" can refer to a Sales Order (from a customer) or a Purchase Order (to a supplier).

Your note provides the crucial context: Orders are placed and sent to creditors (suppliers), and they are later confirmed and converted to purchase documents.

Therefore, the Estonian term Tellimus must be understood as a Purchase Order (Ostutellimus) in this context, although the base term Tellimus is correctly used in your list. The only challenge is to ensure that related concepts like "Backorder" and "Reorder Level" are also correctly linked to the Purchase flow.

We will focus on refining the consistency and precision of the Tellimus translations.

Reviews/Corrections - Backorder Translations (Sales/Customer Context)

Reviews/Corrections - Backorder Translations (Sales/Customer Context)

Thank you for clarifying the context for Backorders: they are created when ordered products exceed the quantity shipped on an invoice, implying an outstanding customer order that needs fulfillment.

This means Backorders (Järeltellimus) are tied to the Sales flow (Customer side), despite the original Order document being a Purchase Order (Ostutellimus). This is a common duality in ERP systems.

Given this context, the standard Estonian term Järeltellimus (Backorder) is correct, but we need to ensure the supporting terms are accurate.

Here is the review:

ID	English Source (en)	Current Estonian Translation (et)	Corrected Estonian Translation	Notes/Rationale
76	&Backorder listing	Tä itmata tellimused	&amp;Jä reltellimuste loetelu	Corrected. Explicitly uses Järeltellimuste loetelu (Backorders listing), which is clearer than generic 'Unfulfilled orders' (Täitmata tellimused).

				Added &.
844	&Backorders	Jä retellimus	&amp;Jä retellimused	Corrected. Used the plural form for a menu/category listing. Added &.
1083	Backorder options	Asendustellimuste valikud	Jä retellimuse valikud	Corrected. Asendustellimused means 'Substitute/Replacement Orders'. Corrected to Järeltellimuse valikud (Backorder options).
1190	Items on backorder	Jä retellimuses olevad tooted	Jä retellimuses olevad tooted	Correct. The phrasing is accurate.
1191	Backorders	Tä itmata jä retellimused	Jä retellimused	Corrected. Used the base plural term for the category/menu item.
2930	No backorder	Jä retellimust pole	Jä retellimust pole	Correct.
3323	Create backorders to deliver	Loo jä relmaksutellimused tarnimiseks	Loo jä retellimused tarnimiseks	Corrected. Changed järelmaksutellimused (installment orders) to järeltellimused (backorders).
906050	Backorder	Jä rel-tellimus	Jä retellimus	Corrected. Used the standard single word.

The Backorder translations are now consistent using the correct term Järeltellimus.
